Special to the Post-Dispatch. CINCINNATI, O., May 1.—The murder last night in the Hotel Gibson of August Bruck, Kentucky gambler and friend of George Remus, notorious bootlegger, has all the earmarks of a gang killing, and police are working on that theory.

Bruck, a happy-go-lucky fellow, 30 years old, was a betting companion of Remus, who was not a gambler, but a racketeer.

Bruck's body was found on the floor of room 714 at 2:45 a. m. today by Charles M. Wright, house detective. He had been shot four times.

Bruck was found in a room which had been occupied by Joseph Plunkett, 30, son of a former police captain in Chicago, and Edward D. Hall, also of Chicago.

Head of Paper Firm Says International Financed Publications to Get Their Business in Newsprint.

ASSERTS CONCERN IS SEEKING OUTLET

Declares Corporation Was Forced to Go Out and Follow Policy Adopted by One of Its Competitors.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 1.—In order, as it asserts to build up a certain and steady market for its product, the International Paper Co. by far the largest organization of its kind in the world, has put into effect a policy comparable to the pre-voistad ownership of railroads by breweries and to the establishment of filling stations by the great oil companies.

Already this policy of making filling stations out of the newspapers has been carried out on a tremendous scale. The company has bought an interest in 13 papers and now is drawing up a contract for the acquisition of an interest in another.

The company denies that in this large scale financing of newspapers it is seeking to control editorial policy or to color the news.

It seeks merely, it says, an outlet for its product.

President Teils of Dealy. These facts as to the purchase of newspapers and this explanation of its purpose were given yesterday to the Federal Trade Commission by Archibald R. Graustein, President of the International Paper Co. and Paper Co. of which the International Paper Co. is a subsidiary.

The examination of Graustein was a part of the investigation which the Commission, by order of Congress, is making into the financial and propaganda practices of the light and power utilities. Inquiry into the purchase of newspapers by the International was suggested by Senator Norris, who declared that the practice on its face looked like an effort by the power trust to control public opinion through the press.

Norris made his statement after the recent disclosure that the International Paper Co. already had acquired 50 per cent of the stock of the Boston Morning Herald and Evening Traveller.

BILL FOR STATE BUDGET IS PASSED BY THE SENATE

Part of Governor's Reform Program Goes to House for Final Action—No Discussion Before Vote. PURCHASING AGENCY PROPOSAL DELAYED Opposition of Republicans to Transfer of Tax Collections Causes Action by Democratic Leader.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 1.—The budget bill for reforms in the governmental financial procedure in Missouri was passed by the Senate at noon today, but Senator Cave, facing almost certain defeat in the central purchasing legislation, was forced to delay bringing it to a vote after he had called it up.

Passage of the budget bill, in a measure, transfers from the Senate to the House responsibility for budget legislation and in reality will put upon the administration the work of forcing it to final passage.

No opposition to the budget bill appeared, the amendments which were adopted during its consideration for engrossment having put it into shape for receiving the full support of the Republican side. The Democrats receded from a position taken earlier, that they would not pass the measure, in view of the Republican action in forcing adoption of amendments which eliminated from it provisions transferring the collection of the income and inheritance taxes from the Auditor and Treasurer to the proposed new Department of Budget and Revenue, created by the act.

Virtually no discussion. Party platform pledges and political expediency, however, resulted in a change of view and Senator Donnelly shortly before noon called the bill for passage. There was virtually no discussion.

But on the central purchasing legislation, which is the real enemy of the bill, the real enemy of the bill, a different situation exists. If Cave had proceeded with it this morning he would have been defeated.

While there was a possibility that two Republicans, Cushman of Maryville and Harlin of Gainesville, might vote for the measure, having opposed the amendment, there were Democratic losses which would have prevented the bill from passing even if it had two Republicans for it.

The Democrats have only 19 votes when all are present, and 18 are required to pass a bill. Senator Casey of Kansas City, and Senator Gunn of Ottumwa, were absent this morning, and Buford of Ellington is counted against the bill, will doubt as to how Searcy of Eminence would vote. It was considered probable that not more than 16 votes could be counted for it, and Cave decided it advisable to postpone a vote until Casey returned from a business trip to Kansas City.

Casey was the author of the purchasing bill and it is unusual for one Senator to call up the bill of another Senator in his absence. Cave did not care to take the responsibility of putting Casey's bill to a vote, in view of the apparent strength of the opposition.

The House last week passed a budget bill, known as the Bales proposal, which sets up a budget system under the State Tax Commission.

On the Republican side there was almost unanimous opposition to the bill, the Republicans choosing to follow Secretary of State Becker, who in opposing it is fighting the battle of the spoils politicians, rather than to follow Gov. Caulfield, who is urging the legislation.

When the bill was engrossed the Republicans failed in an effort to amend it to preserve for Becker his present power of controlling the letting of all State printing. The Governor, at Becker's plea, had requested that printing be eliminated from the supervision of the proposed purchasing agent, but the Senate refused to comply with his request.

At that time the Republicans, with two exceptions, voted with Becker, and while the Democrats lost a few votes to the Becker following, the amendment failed to pass.

The attitude of the Republicans toward the measure was uncertain until today, when Senator Ralph, Republican floor leader, had colloquies with his colleagues on the floor and the decision was reached to oppose the bill.

GERMAN EX-PRINCE TO LIVE IN LOS ANGELES

Louis Ferdinand Courting Lily Damita, Movie Actress—He May Work for Ford.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 1.—Romance and a business career have led Prince Louis Ferdinand, second son of the former Crown Prince of Germany, to establish his residence here.

The Prince has been taking flying lessons and announced today that he probably would become associated with the aviation department of the Ford Motor Co., it said he had conferred recently with Henry Ford in Detroit.

The other attraction here for Ferdinand is Lily Damita, motion picture actress. He said Miss Damita declared that they had met and fallen in love in Germany two years ago. She declared she had declined to give up her career for marriage, but suggested that if their regard for each other endured she might eventually change her mind.

When Prince George of England came to the Pacific Coast as Lieut. Windsor on the H. M. S. Durban last year, he was accompanied by his wife, Margaret, who was a member of the house of Hohenzollern and had received a degree as the result of study.

Ferdinand expressed pride in the fact that he had won a degree as Doctor of Philosophy at the University of Berlin, where he graduated two months ago. It was the first time, he said, that a member of the house of Hohenzollern had received a degree as the result of study.

Casey was the author of the purchasing bill and it is unusual for one Senator to call up the bill of another Senator in his absence. Cave did not care to take the responsibility of putting Casey's bill to a vote, in view of the apparent strength of the opposition.

LIBERTY IN U. S. PLEASES POPE

VATICAN CITY, May 1.—Pope Pius, receiving Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston, late today declared that Catholics in the United States should be extremely happy to be enjoying religious liberty because that was all that the church asked for.

The Pontiff showed himself deeply gratified at the progress of the Catholic Church in the United States, and told Cardinal O'Connell that he was most gratified the dean of American Catholics had come to the head of a pilgrimage of 250 Catholics to honor him on the occasion of his sacerdotal jubilee.

ADMITS KILLING BANK CASHIER IN DES ARC HOLDUP

Dallas Sutton, 31, Captured Last Night After 12-Mile Flight From Scene of Crime.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FRONTON, Mo., May 1.—Dallas Sutton, 21-year-old lead miner, of Annapolis, Mo., was in jail here today charged with the murder of Edward W. Cook, 60, cashier of the Bank of Des Arc, who was shot to death in a holdup yesterday afternoon.

Sutton was captured near Annapolis shortly after he had fled more than 12 miles from Des Arc. Sheriff William C. Barnes said today that the youth had confessed, explaining that he was seized with panic when Cook refused to raise his hands and pulled the trigger of his revolver unconsciously.

Des Arc, a hamlet of about 400 population, is on the Missouri Pacific about 130 miles from St. Louis. The bank, a small institution with total resources of about $16,000, occupies a store room on the main street. Officers and directors are business men of the town and Cook was the only employee.

Sutton, who had been discharged from a lead mine recently for insubordination, told the Sheriff he had decided to rob the bank on a previous visit to Des Arc. Yesterday he went there in his automobile, parked the machine in the street and loitered near the door for more than an hour. Several townspeople observed him leaning against a post and subsequently were able to identify him.

Sutton Draws Revolver.
At 3 o'clock, Cashier Cook left the bank unguarded and walked across the street to the postoffice. Sutton edged close to the door and when Cook returned, he entered behind the cashier. Inside, Cook turned and inquired the young man's business. Sutton drew his revolver and ordered the cashier to raise his hands.

Sutton stepped through the door to the east, slamming it behind him. Sutton fired a shot which pierced a wood panel.

The bullet entered Cook's mouth and penetrated to the exit, his head causing instant death. Without trying to get any money, Sutton turned and fled from the bank with his weapon in his hand. He ran past his parked machine, along the two blocks of business street, and out on the Annapolis road. Townspeople who heard the shot, among them E. F. Fitz, president of the bank, ran to the bank and found Cashier Cook dead on the floor.

Posses Form Quickly.
Within an hour a dozen posses were searching for the robber along the various roads of Iron County, and it was after 10 o'clock when David Wray, a local hunter, and Everett Fink, a merchant of Annapolis, armed with shotguns, met Sutton on the highway.

The exhausted fugitive surrendered immediately, handing over the weapon which he had used to kill the cashier, and was taken to Fronton in an automobile. There his captors found Sheriff Barnes' 22-year-old wife and a woman friend in charge of the jail. Sutton was locked in cell and volunteers stood guard until 4 a. m., when the Sheriff and his deputies returned from the hunt.

According to President Fitz, the bank had about $2400 in cash on hand when the robbery was attempted. Cook, who was married, but had no children, had been cashier for five years.

AUTO DRIVER FINED $200 FOR FELONIOUS WOUNDING
Ernest S. R. Suddarth, 29 years old, of 1729 Missouri avenue, was found guilty of felonious wounding and fined $200 by a jury in Circuit Judge Rutledge's Court today.

The charge followed an accident at Jefferson and Gravois avenues Oct. 18, last, when Suddarth's automobile struck Mary Jane Eckert, 7 years old, and her grandmother, Mrs. Nancy Miller, 65 years old, of 2626 St. Vincent street, killing Mrs. Miller almost instantly and inflicting cuts and abrasions on the child.

Suddarth was acquitted of manslaughter in causing Mrs. Miller's death, by a jury in the same court Feb. 26.

ered Gannett newspapers, although there have been unverified reports that Gannett had received financial support from the paper and power interests.

"No less is the development apparent on this side. The Chicago Tribune, one of the largest consumers of newsprint in the West, has for many years owned a newsprint mill and is in process of enlarging its newsprint properties, and only within the last two or three years, the New York Times, probably the largest consumer of newsprint in the East, has acquired what is reputed to be approximately a one-half interest in a very large newsprint mill in Ontario.

Says Competitors Financed Papers.
"More than that, competitors of the International have assisted in financing newspapers, and the poor showing of the International in 1928 is partly ascribable to the loss of a large account through financial interest extended by a competitor."

The foregoing statement about the activities of competitors was given in Graustein's formal statement and not in his testimony from the witness chair. He was not questioned as to the identity of the competitors.

Referring to charges that the International Paper Co., because of its affiliation with the hydro-electric power holdings of the parent company, might be interested in the editorial and news policies of the newspapers in which it had an interest, Graustein said:

"The International has no right, ability or desire in any way to influence the news or editorial policy of any newspaper in the whole country. A director of the New England Power Association, another of our subsidiaries, strenuously opposed our buying into the Herald and Traveler. I told him that we would provide to the people of New England that we had no intention of trying to influence the policies of these papers."

Must Keep Mills Running.
"I know that people will be suspicious of our newspapers, but we must keep our newsprint mills running. Eventually people will know that this is our sole object in buying into newspapers."

"Newspaper men tell us that a newspaper will lose prestige and money if it is known that an outside interest is controlling the news and editorial policy. We should be hurting our own investments if we attempted to mix in and dictate policies."

Graustein is a member of the Public Policy Committee of the National Electric Light Association, which, according to testimony before the Commission, has been active in working against Government ownership of public utilities. Graustein testified that he had never discussed with his fellow Committee members his policy of buying into newspapers, and it is reported here that this Committee or the Joint Committee of Public Utility Associations will repudiate this policy at its next meeting.

An exhibit placed in the record by Graustein shows that the International Paper and Paper Co. in 1927 derived 54 per cent of its income from power operations, 25 per cent from the sale of newsprint and 21 per cent from miscellaneous sources.

Gannett Declares Stock Was Given as Security for Loan.
By the Associated Press.
ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 1.—Frank E. Gannett, owner of the Gannett group of 17 newspapers, told the Associated Press yesterday that he had received financial assistance from the International Paper Co. and that he wished to make clear the connection of four of his papers as established by the testimony of A. R. Graustein, president of the company, before the Federal Trade Commission. He said:

"The International Paper Co. has no interest in any of the Gannett newspapers with these exceptions:

"Last fall when the money market was in bad condition I found it difficult to issue public securities and made temporary arrangements with the International Paper Co. by which this company bought certain notes and preferred stock of the corporations that operate papers in Brooklyn and Albany."

"For advancing this money the International received 30 per cent of common stock in Albany and Brooklyn, but have no stock interest in Ithaca. The International Paper Co. has nothing whatever to do with the editorial policy of these papers or anything to do with their management. The International merely asked that it be given consideration in the purchase of newsprint."

"I was able to make very favorable terms with the International both in newsprint arrangements and in borrowing money. It was a very satisfactory business deal that really concerns no one but me. However, I have no objections to disclosing the facts. Everyone knows that the amount of money borrowed from the International is only a fraction of my resources and that I am no more obligated to that concern than I would be to a bank in a similar transaction."

"It might be that I buy but a part of my newsprint supply from the International Paper Co."

Southern Publisher Explains Deal With International Paper Co.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 1.—William Lavarre, who with Harold Hall publishes the Georgia and South Carolina newspapers mentioned by A. R. Graustein of International Paper Co. in his testimony before the Federal Trade Commission issued a statement here in which he said the transaction was solely for the purpose of raising capital and the four newspapers "will be the same as ever independent."

He added that he had signed the note for the loan to the International Paper Co. last Friday, in no way, he said, would the news and editorial columns be influenced by the transaction.

Later Gannett said: "The International Paper Co. absolutely owns no common stock in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle and has no voting rights in the management."

"It owns only 40 per cent of a holding company which is absolutely in control, and this holding company only owns two-thirds of the stock of the Brooklyn Eagle. I personally have all the voting power of two-thirds of the common stock of the Brooklyn Eagle. The other one-third voting power is owned by various individuals who were original owners of the Eagle stock."

JUDGE WARNS YOUTH AGAINST POOLROOMS

Bad Sign When a Young Man Spends Time There, Faris Tells Prisoner.

A lecture on poolrooms was delivered by Federal Judge Faris today in sentencing to jail a youth arrested in one.

"It is a little sinister and significant," Judge Faris told the defendant, 19-year-old Joe, 15 years old, "that you were picked up by police in a pool hall. Some pool halls are all right, but most of them are all wrong. They are the gathering places for ex-convicts, thieves and gamblers, and it's a bad sign when a young man spends time around them."

Coin pleaded guilty. He was accused of a violation of the Dyer Act in stealing the automobile of Albert Engleton, 912 North Eighth street, last January, and driving it to East St. Louis, where the car broke down. He asserted, however, that he had lent a set of license plates for a car he formerly owned, to Engleton, who, in return, granted him permission to use Engleton's car occasionally. Engleton denied this, saying he had rented the plates by paying Coin 50 cents. Coin, who has been in jail three months, was sentenced for an additional three months.

Grover Dorey, a mail carrier who admitted stealing letters containing money from the Eastonia branch postoffice in Weston, Ind., in return, granted him permission to use Engleton's car occasionally. Engleton denied this, saying he had rented the plates by paying Coin 50 cents. Coin, who has been in jail three months, was sentenced for an additional three months.

BUSSMANN FUSE COMPANY IS SOLD FOR $3,000,000

Chicago Concern Buys St. Louis Business That Started in 1914 With $2000 Capital.

The Bussmann Manufacturing Co., organized in 1914 by five brothers with a capital stock of $2000, was sold today to the McGraw Electric Co. of Chicago for $3,000,000.

For seven years the company manufactured electric fuses, but in 1921, it added an electric lighting lamp to the product of its plants at University street and Jefferson avenue and at Lismore street and Sullivan avenue.

The McGraw Co. intends to enlarge present plants to provide for manufacture of additional products and supplies. About 500 persons are employed now, and the company says it manufactures more electrical fuses than any other concern in the world.

get in touch with you, but unsuccessful. I'm lying in bed writing you, thinking of you, also thinking of the horrible name Harry called me. I realize, much to my regret, that it's Joe and Harry, and Patsy would never stand a chance.

"I thank you and appreciate lots the fact that you returned to me the ring—it will at least be a remembrance of one I adored more than anything in the world and one that I always will.

"For happiness to be shattered 'Patsy' is nothing new—just a common occurrence. I do hate lots, Joe, to be convicted on circumstantial evidence.

"Truthfully, Joe, I would appreciate a phone call, but a visit would mean so much more to me. The last thing I'll ask, dear, is forgiveness for being the instigator of trouble between friends. Forever and even, you'll 'Pat' Patsy."

"P. S.—Marge said 'Hi.' Another note addressed to 'Joe' found in the room, stated: 'Just a little thing from Patsy hoping it will always guide you right and keep you safe.'

The police found two telegrams from a girl, signing her name as 'Dolly,' addressed to Plunkett. They were sent from Detroit. The first telegram, dated March 25, stated: 'Hello, Baby, call me tonight.' It was signed 'Dolly.' The other message, dated March 21, read: 'You're a sweet baby. Thanks for beautiful flowers. Lots of love.' Also signed 'Dolly.'

The coat, bearing the name of John Monahan in an inside pocket, was much too large for Monahan, the police said. This led the police to believe that somebody had been using the name of Monahan. In the coat the police also found a receipt from an Ottawa, Canada, Elks' lodge, for dues paid by Edward D. Hall. The receipt showed dues had been paid up to April 1, 1929.

Letter From Lawyer Found

A letter found in the pocket of the coat containing the name of Monahan was addressed to William P. Hardig, Kunkel avenue, Cheviot. It was written on the stationery of Attorney Friberg, Simmons & Forchheimer, 211 Fourth street, and was signed by R. E. Simmons Jr. It follows:

"It is necessary to make disposition of the Remus case. Yours and Clara's obligation to the gas company is past due, and the only way you can prevent foreclosure is to make payment. I have retained enough money in my possession from the Remus assignment to pay out moneys already advanced. We must get this matter behind us and I would thank you to get in touch with Miss Watson or Mr. Remus and get this matter settled, so that we know where we go from here. Give this matter your consideration on your part."

SMALL LOAN BILLS AGAIN DELAYED BY ARBITRARY ACTION

Senator Buford Continues Despotism Tactics, With Majority of Committee for Favorable Report.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 1.—Action in the Senate Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence on the bills to repeal the 42 per cent loan law and to reduce the legal interest rate to 24 per cent, again were delayed last night by arbitrary action of Senator Buford of Ellington, chairman of the committee, who refused to recognize a committee vote that the bills be reported. Buford has refused to permit the committee to act on the measures for three months.

Buford's attempt to kill the legislation is expected to prove unavailing, as the Ballew bill, reducing the interest rate, was passed in the House Monday and will go to the Senate for action. Lieutenant Governor Winter has indicated that he will not refer the bill to Buford's committee but will send it to a committee in which it will receive consideration.

Committee for Passage.

It had been expected by some Senators that Buford would permit a consideration of the small loan legislation at the regular meeting of the committee last night. The Senate last Thursday supported him when Senator Dearmont of Cape Girardeau attempted by a motion from the floor to force Buford to report one or more of the bills.

The McGraw Co. recently sold its wholesale electrical supply business at Sioux City, (Ia.), and Omaha to the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. Also, it has acquired the Waters, Center Co. of Minneapolis, manufacturers of electric toasters. About two years ago the McGraw Electric Appliance Co., 329 South Broadway, was sold by the same interests to the Westinghouse Co.

Senate Passes Osteopaths' Bill.

Waldorf to Give Baccalaureate.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 1.—Bishop E. L. Waldorf of the Methodist Episcopal Church will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the 1929 graduating class of the University of Missouri June 2. It was announced today. The commencement speaker has not been chosen.

After questioning Monahan for several hours, Detective Chief Emmett D. Kirgan stated he was convinced that Monahan knew nothing about the murder.

Mrs. Bruck told the police that her husband was not associated with Remus in any of his liquor operations. She said they became acquainted with Remus after he had been released from the Atlanta penitentiary. She said she and her husband testified for Remus when he was on trial for murder of his wife, Mrs. Imogene Remus. She and her husband became acquainted with Plunkett and Hall when visiting Remus at the Lima State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, where Remus was sent following his acquittal on the charge of killing his wife.

Remus said he knew Bruck only as a friend and that he never had any business connections with him. Detectives recalled that Bruck sat at the steering wheel of an automobile which returned Remus here from Lima.

Shaw Admires Tunney for Skill in Boxing and Finance

Dr. Archibald Henderson Tells of Meeting, When Pugilist Criticized Knowledge and Technique of Playwright.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 1.—Dr. Archibald Henderson of the University of North Carolina, a biographer of George Bernard Shaw, told today of the author's first meeting with Gene Tunney, "dropped in to see Bernard Shaw in London."

"Well," said Tunney to Shaw, "you are away behind the times in your 'Cashed Byron's Profession.' You should try to do justice to the art of boxing as it is practiced today. I, for instance, am not a pugilist. I am a boxer, a man who boxes for money. Your Cashed Byron fighter is an old-style bruiser, killing himself for 50 rounds for maybe a pound or two of reward."

"Real boxing as it is today is a dignified profession, calling for a million in cash for 10 rounds. You want to rewrite that drama on Cashed Byron."

"Well, sir," Shaw replied, "You have a perfect right to criticize me on the art of boxing, but you have no right whatever to criticize me on the art of writing."

"And so," continued Dr. Henderson, "in this manner the friendship began to bud. Then they made it a point to get rooms next door to each other in the same hotel in the Mediterranean resort. To tell the truth, Shaw is essentially an economist, and when he recognized Tunney's ability in financial matters, in the lucrative side of boxing, he could but advise Tunney to some extent. Shaw, you know, sees all things from the money point of view."

"Thus we see that Tunney had two points in his favor—a sense of money value and an adept skill in the art of boxing."

TEACHER GETS 25 YEARS FOR KILLING OR WHIPPING

F. E. Watson Convicted at Benton, Ill., of Murdering Man Whose Children He Chastized.

BENTON, Ill., May 1.—Florence E. Watson, a school teacher and a former candidate for the State Legislature, who shot and killed Charles Ritchason last November in an altercation over the whipping of Ritchason's four children at a rural school, was convicted of murder by a Circuit Court jury today. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison.

Evidence in the trial was that Ritchason was shot in the back, although Watson pleaded self-defense. Ritchason had remonstrated against the whipping of his children. Watson spent several weeks in jail following the shooting, but was liberated on bond and permitted to finish out the school term.

TWINS SEEK TO DIVORCE TWINS

Married Together, Sisters Want Decree on Same Day.

LOS ANGELES, May 1.—Mmes. Louise and Lucy Young, twins, were married to their twin spouses, Earl and Earl, at a double wedding two months ago. Both applied for divorces yesterday. The petitions read like carbon copies except that Louise accused Earl of ill-treating her to a "Tijl Island because of the way she wore her hair." He also did not like the way she tied her hair.

ARMY FLYER KILLED IN CRASH

Lieut. J. C. Banta of Brooks Field, Tex., the Victim.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 1.—Lieut. J. C. Banta, Brooks Field flyer, was killed today when his army plane crashed near here. Officers at the field said he was attempting to make an 80-degree turn for a landing when his ship went into a spin at an altitude of 400 feet. He was flying alone.

SHAARE EMETH BUYS EGYPTIAN BUILDING

Congregation Approves Purchase of Structure in University City for $165,000.

Congregation Shaare Emeth, one of the four Jewish reformed churches in St. Louis, voted last night to buy the Egyptian Building, 6909 Delmar boulevard, for $165,000, and to move there from its present building at Vandeventer avenue and Lindell boulevard. This action had been anticipated. A new building may be erected.

Officers of the congregation were authorized to appoint a committee to find a new rabbi of outstanding talents. An honorarium of $12,000—one year's pay—in consideration of past services, was decided on for the former rabbi, Dr. Louis Witt, who resigned on Feb. 1 to take charge of a congregation in Dayton, O., at $8000 a year.

Shaare Emeth had been considering a merger with Temple Israel and Congregation Etsai, but this scheme was abandoned recently in the belief the community would be served better by separate bodies. Dr. Witt had been asked to become rabbi of the merged group for a period of two years, but did not care to accept the limited term. It is understood the leaders in the churches desired as their permanent spiritual head a man of wider reputation. Dr. Witt had been given Dr. Witt by the combined congregations.

Dr. Samuel Sale, who has been rabbi emeritus of Shaare Emeth for 10 years, with an income of $4800 a year for life, has returned to active capacity voluntarily since Dr. Witt left and until a successor is found. Temple Israel also is seeking a rabbi, to succeed the late Dr. Leon Harrison. Etsai is considering removal from Spring and Flad avenues to the West End.

A building committee is to be appointed by Edwin B. Meisner, president of Shaare Emeth, to determine whether to remodel the Egyptian Building and erect additions, or to wreck it and build a new church of accepted ecclesiastical design. The Egyptian Building, the characteristic architecture of Egypt, was put up about 25 years ago by E. G. Lewis, the publisher who founded University City. It occupies a block of ground measuring 300x374 feet. The seller is the Jeannette Realty Co. and cash will be paid.

MAY SNOWSTORM IN ROCKIES

Parts of Montana, Colorado and Wyoming Blanketed.

DENVER, May 1.—May day brought to the Rocky Mountain region a swirling, blinding snowstorm borne in on a north wind. Cold rain throughout the night had turned to heavy wet snow in many parts of Montana and Wyoming and in Colorado. Ranchers took measures to protect spring lambs and cattle.

Cheyenne, Wyo., struck last week by a blizzard that cut off communication for three days, experienced a new storm today that brought more than an inch of wet snow and high winds. In Denver huge flakes of snow fell steadily throughout the morning, covering budding trees and shrubs in white. The snow melted quickly on pavements. In the higher altitudes several severe snowstorms were raging. Rain fell in Eastern Colorado, Western Nebraska and Western Kansas. A heavy sleet storm was reported about 20 miles south of La Junta, Colo., and extending to Trinidad. Rain and cold weather prevailed in Northern New Mexico.

DEPUTY CLEARED BY GRAND JURY IN DE KING KILLING

Only Indictment Returned Charges Informer With Making False Affidavit as to Liquor Purchase.

NO ENFORCEMENT CHANGES URGED

Number of Jurors Wanted to Indict Woman's Husband for Resisting Officer and Dry Violation.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Ill., May 1.—One indictment has been returned as a result of a prohibition raid last month at Aurora in which Mrs. Lillian de King lost her life and a Deputy Sheriff was shot. The only charge preferred by the Kane County grand jury is perjury against Eugene Boyd Fairchild, whose false affidavit of buying liquor at the De King home led to the raid.

The man who killed Mrs. de King, Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith, was exonerated by the jurors, who also returned a no bill for Joseph de King, husband of the woman killed. Shot in the leg by the 12-year-old son of the woman he killed, Smith has been in Elgin Hospital, unable to walk.

The result of the jury's deliberations was foreseen last week when it completed its investigation, but it was thought there would be some suggestions for drastic changes in dry law enforcement in Kane County made in court when the report was delivered yesterday. These did not develop, and Judge John K. Newhall dismissed the members, explaining he did not think it would be necessary to call them before the end of the term, May 18.

Fairchild Again Gives Bond.
Bonds in the same amount and of the same security provided some time ago before a Justice of the Peace in Aurora on a perjury charge were given by Fairchild. He appeared voluntarily at the courthouse to await the verdict of the grand jury and was released as soon as he gave bond.

Joseph de King barely escaped indictment, it was learned, for a majority favored holding him on charges of resisting an officer and violation of the prohibition law. No action was taken, however, when State's Attorney George Carberry explained he believed De King had been punished sufficiently by the death of his wife.

Just before the grand jury adjourned last Wednesday, 10 witnesses, residents of the county, testified they bought liquor of De King at his home just north of Aurora at different times during the last three years. It was this testimony and also the stories of the raid as told by the De Kings and the Deputy Sheriffs, that led to the consideration of the indictment. Action against two others connected with the raid, featured by machine guns, rifles, sawed-off shotguns, revolvers and tear bombs, was also considered by the jury.

Johnson Not Indicted.
"I am glad the investigation is over," was all that the State's Attorney said. He announced after the raid, March 15, that he thought Deputy Smith acted in the line of duty and self-defense.

Philip Johnson of Batavia, who was taken before the grand jury twice to tell of buying liquor at the De King home at the request of Fairchild, did not figure in the verdict of the grand jury. Johnson bought the liquor which Fairchild turned in to the chief investigator, Muller, and then swore he bought it personally.

Relatives from Moline, Ill., were brought before the jury to testify that Joseph de King was in that city the day the liquor was supposed to have been bought.

Question of Search Warrant.
Whether a search warrant was presented was not established in the course of the investigation. De King alleged he asked the Deputies to read him the search warrant and they refused. The Deputies testified they tried to show it to him and he told them to put it back or he would shoot them.

Three Deputies called at the De King home first. Refused, they returned with reinforcements and Deputy Smith entered to find De King backing toward him, declaring he would shoot the first man in the house. Smith struck De King over the head and felled him. He said Mrs. de King then came into view, jumping toward a revolver dropped by her husband, and he fired. The 12-year-old boy, Gerald, picked up a revolver and shot Smith in the leg.

The boy later at the police station substantiated Smith's story, but at the Coroner's inquest said his mother was shot when sitting at the telephone.

FOUND NOT GUILTY OF ARSON
Harry Bernard is Acquitted at Belleville on Alibi.

Harry Bernard, former manager of Lloyd's Department Store, at St. Louis, was acquitted of arson by a jury in Circuit Judge Miller's court at Belleville yesterday. Bernard was charged with starting a fire which damaged the store $10,000 last July 4.

His defense was an alibi.

Air mail and passenger service from St. Louis to Omaha, by way of Kansas City, was started at 7:25 o'clock this morning when two planes of the Universal Aviation Corporation took off from Lambert-St. Louis Field following a brief ceremony.

The signal for the departure of the planes was given by Frederick Ellis, 15-year-old nephew of Mayor Miller. A special cancellation stamp was used for the inaugural flight.

The schedule calls for arrival at Kansas City at 10 o'clock and Omaha at noon. Eastbound, the schedule calls for departure from Omaha at 1:10 p. m., arrival at Kansas City at 3 o'clock and St. Louis 5:50 o'clock. The service is daily, only one plane being used each way after today.

Single-motored Fokker monoplanes with cabin space for six passengers are used in the new service. The passenger fare to Kansas City is $32 one way, $60 round trip; to Omaha $48 one way, $90 round trip. About 500 pounds of mail was carried on the first trip. FIREMEN'S BILL PASSES HOUSE DESPITE RULES

Adopted, 77 to 36, After Speaker Refuses to Verify Early Vote—Would Tax Premiums.

By BOYD F. CARROLL, Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 1.—Gavel rule was utilized by Speaker Jones Parker late yesterday afternoon to drive through the House a firemen's pension bill, in which he was interested, over protests of opponents who were unable to obtain a verification of the vote, to which they were entitled under House rules, at a stage when the bill lacked enough votes for passage.

When Parker refused to permit a verification of the vote, the official roll call showed the bill had received only 65 favorable votes. A verification is a check of whether the votes cast are accurately recorded, and once it is begun no additional votes can be cast. Parker refused to recognize House members demanding a verification, and later declared the bill passed by a vote of 77 to 36.

Parker delayed announcement of the vote while supporters of the measure rounded up members from the corridors and cloakrooms to vote for it. As soon as enough votes were obtained Parker declared the bill passed. He refused to recognize objecting members who sought recognition to speak on a point of personal privilege, and called up another bill.

30 Democrats Walk Out. Protests against such tactics broke out against a few minutes later, when about 30 Democrats walked out of the House after Parker had refused to rule upon a point of order against a bill then under consideration, and ordered a roll call on its passage. The bill was a Republican measure for senatorial redistricting of the State, and the point of order was that the bill was dead, because of a violation of constitutional requirements as to legislative procedure in previous handling.

The Speaker put the redistricting bill to a vote, but when the roll call was being completed, and it was apparent the bill was badly beaten, he announced the procedure was "only a joke" and instructed House clerks to make no record of the proceedings.

The firemen's pension bill authorizes the levying of a tax of 2 per cent of all premiums collected by insurance companies, on fire, tornado and explosion insurance in those cities that take advantage of the act, for the maintenance of firemen's pension funds. The tax, which is labeled an occupation tax, would be levied only in cities which elect to come under the act by passing appropriate ordinances.

Parker Argues for Bill. During debate on the bill Parker left the stand to urge its passage, but resumed his post before the vote was taken. When this bill was up for engrossment recently, Parker nearly came to blows with Representative Robertson of Saline County in discussion of the measure. Other House members prevented an encounter. The bill was beaten when the regular roll call was completed and the absentees had been called. The roll call clerk informed Representative Miller of St. Louis, author of the bill, and Parker that it had received only 65 votes.

Representatives Kennedy of Cooper County and Snyder of Lewis County immediately demanded a verification, and were joined in the demand by a half dozen others. Parker ignored them. The rules provide that a verification shall be made, after the calling of the absentees, upon demand of two members.

When Snyder and Kennedy continued to shout that they were demanding a verification, Parker said, "It doesn't make any difference whether you do it or not." Eventually enough votes were brought in and the bill was declared passed.

Representative Robertson, one of the leaders of the opposition, announced afterward, "I don't mind being whipped, but I want to be whipped honestly."

Opponents of the bill indicated that if it was passed by the Senate they would file a protest against the manner in which it was passed, as provided by the Constitution. Such a protest goes with the bill to the Governor, and if the bill is signed, is filed with the bill as a record in the event of any legal contest.

CREDITOR NATIONS OPPOSE DELAYING REPARATION PACT

French Officials Say Germany Must Either Agree to Final Settlement or Return to Dawes Plan.

By ARNO DOSCH FLEUROT,
Paris Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Publications Co., Inc. New York World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, May 1.—Germany's creditors, led by France, have taken a determined stand against passing the reparation problem on to any future political conference. The attitude in French official circles is that either Germany will have to agree now to a final settlement of its war obligations or attempts at a compromise will have to be dropped and operation of the Dawes plan continued.

The prevailing opinion among the Reparations Committee experts is that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Germany's spokesman, will return from Berlin with a compromise offer. This makes tomorrow, the scheduled day of his return, an important day in the negotiations.

In case the experts cannot reach an accord, the French delegates declare, further negotiations will be unacceptable. The purpose of this intimation, which also is expressed in the semi-official Temps, is to force a settlement now.

Experts of other creditor Powers, including the United States, are opposed to any recommendations for a postponed conference. It was learned by the correspondent. As Schacht has conferred in Berlin with officials of the German Government, his answer to the compromise offer being discussed there will be regarded as Germany's answer.

Among members of the American delegation the opinion still prevails that Schacht will compromise. In other delegations, however, the opinion is stronger that he will not. In preparation for the final act of the conference the draft of the experts' report is playing an important role. All Germany's creditors, including the American delegation, have agreed on the substance of the report. If the Germans make reservations on what it should contain and the manner in which its main points should be presented, they will stand alone.

The position of the American experts is that the door has been left wide open for Schacht on his return Thursday to negotiate an equitable settlement. If he finds it impossible to do so, the Americans will join Germany's other creditors in a report which, when published, will appear much more desirable for Germany to concur in its recommendations than to be bound by continued enforcement of the Dawes plan.

PLUMBER PLEADS GUILTY OF HOUDUPS, GETS 10 YEARS

Edward Hesse, Guest at Roosevelt Hotel, Sentenced: So Is Companion, John McNichols.

Edward Hesse, 38 years old, a plumber, who gave his residence as the Roosevelt Hotel, pleaded guilty to three robbery charges in Circuit Judge Hall's court today and was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary on each, one of the sentences to run concurrently. Hesse admitted taking part in the holdup of the Edward Weber & Bro. Grocery Co., 4200 Olive street, on Jan. 22, of Philip Silverstein, 4028 North Newstead avenue, on Jan. 19, and Joe Novakovich, 4055 Forest Park boulevard, on the same date.

John McNichols, 24, 1822A North Garrison, received similar sentences on pleas of guilty to participation in the same holdups March 13.

The New Idea

IN the old days it was sometimes considered fashionable to be delicate and pale, but it is different now. The woman of today believes that she has as good a claim to health and strength as a man has, and often needs them more. When she experiences pains and a general lagged-out feeling, if rest does not restore her, she goes straight to her favorite drug store and buys a bottle of that popular herbal tonic.

Facing the Future

The supremacy of the railroads in the field of commercial transportation is being challenged today as never before. Barge lines are competing for the freight traffic of the railroads, and so are motor truck lines. Bus lines and airways are bidding for their passenger traffic. What will be the outcome?

The railroads are giving their answer to that question. They spent last year approximately $680,000,000 for improvements in facilities and will probably spend more this year. In the last eight years their expenditures for improvements have amounted to around six and one-half billion dollars.

The present good quality of railway service is one result of such expenditures. The sustained volume of business is another, for railway purchases stimulate all other kinds of business.

In these fast-moving days of strenuous competition a program of expansion on the scale maintained by the railroads takes courage. It also takes faith—not only in the essential character of railway transportation, but in the fair-mindedness of the American people, that they will recognize the outstanding service performed by fully self-supporting railroads under all conditions and that they will reward such service by continued patronage.

If the railroads are to continue to be reliable providers of transportation, they must prosper. Patronage and constructive regulation of rates are two main requirements of their prosperity.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

MEXICAN REBELS AT AGUA PRIETA LAY DOWN ARMS

1500 Surrender and Give Up City Under Agreement Signed on American Side of Border.

By the Associated Press.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., May 1.—The city of Agua Prieta, Sonora, last rebel border stronghold, and 1500 revolutionary soldiers were surrendered to Gen. Ignacio Flores, Federal commander, today, following the signing of an official agreement between representatives of the two factions at the American Custom House here.

The agreement was reached after a three-hour conference between Gen. Antonio Medina, commanding the rebels, and various consular and military representatives of the Federal Government, including Mexican Consul Fernando Chacon at Naco and Gen. Abelardo Rodriguez, Governor of Lower California, who were consulted by telephone. Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, rebel commander-in-chief, disappeared from Agua Prieta soon after the conference began.

An early morning Federal bombing raid on Agua Prieta planned by Naco, Sonora, was canceled and all Federal troop movements against the city were halted after the truce which guaranteed immunity to all soldiers and line officers of the revolutionary armies. Such concessions were denied higher ranking officers, including those who participated in the peace party. They returned to the Arizona side of the border to negotiate with American immigration officials for sanctuary in this country.

Mexican Consul Emiliano Tamez announced that a governing body for the Agua Prieta district had been appointed. Tamez said notice of the amnesty had been dispatched to Gen. Marcelino Caraveo, commanding rebels near Pulpito. Messengers also were sent to Federal Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, advancing from the east, to acquaint him with the situation so as to avoid the possibility of a clash with surrendered rebels.

The surrender of Nogales, Sonora, to Federal forces yesterday and the flight into Douglas, Ariz., last night of 11 rebel leaders, including Gen. Manuel F. Barcenas, revolutionary Mayor of Agua Prieta, left only three revolutionary leaders, including Escobar, in the northern Sonora field.

Still holding out against the advancing Federalists were the Italian Generals Marcelo Caraveo and Ramon Yucupicio. They had been resisting the advance of Gen. Almazan and his Federalists through Pulpito Pass into Sonora. Their forces were presumed to be in the hills south of Agua Prieta. Gen. Calles, head of the Federal armies, is expected in Nogales, Sonora, today with his staff. The surrender of Nogales was preceded by a bombing raid from Federal airplanes and considerable confusion. During the morning there were 1200 rebel soldiers in the garrison. When their commander, Gen. Francisco Barquez, abandoned them and moved to American soil here, 500 Yaqui Indians fled to the hills. The other 700 stuck through the air raid and fired on the Federal planes.

Calles' Cousin Chosen Governor of Sonora.

MEXICO CITY, May 1.—Francisco Elias, a cousin of Gen. Calles and financial agent in New York under the Obregon administration, yesterday was chosen provisional Governor of Sonora by the permanent congressional commission. The commission, before its election, declared the office vacant because of the rebellion of former Gov. Fausto Topeta against the central Government. Elias will serve until general state elections are held to elect for a full term a constitutional Governor.

TWO KILLED IN LEAP OFF BURNING DERRICK AT JOPLIN

Eleven Others Rescued in Explosion and Fire at Lead Mine Plant.

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., May 1.—Francis Lewis, 19 years old, of Baxter Springs, Kan., and Jack Woods of Webb City, were killed and 11 others rescued after several hours when fire, which followed an explosion, destroyed a zinc and lead mine plant near here yesterday.

Lewis was killed instantly when he jumped from the top of the mine derrick when flames enveloped the structure. His neck was broken. Woods, a hoistman, also jumped from the derrick and suffered injuries from which he died shortly after being taken to a hospital.

The fire, which started in the roof of the compressor room, apparently from the exhaust of the compressor engine, spread rapidly through the mill plant.

It reached the derrick where Woods and Lewis were working, leaving them but two possible means of escape, sliding down a cable or leaving the derrick by means of a rock tram. Apparently frightened by the flames, they chose to jump.

Charles Jobes, mine operator, and J. R. Price, president of the Kansas City Smelting Co. of Kansas City, were being brought to the surface when the fire reached the derrick. They were hemmed in by fire which swept between them and the doorway of the mill and had to crawl through an opening in the floor of the mill.

PLANES DROP FLOWERS ON THE GRAVE OF PRIEST

Three airplanes from Lambert-St. Louis Field circled over Calvary Cemetery this morning and dropped flowers on the grave of the Rev. Henry T. Hussmann, the "flying pastor" of St. Henry's Catholic Church, California avenue and Rutger street, who died Saturday.

Father Hussmann, an ardent aviator, made a dying request that fellow aviators take part in his funeral services in this manner. Burial followed services at the church, in which Archbishop Glennon officiated. The planes were piloted by Elmer Lindenberg, William Brewster and Jack McMillan, representing the Von Hoffmann Aircraft Co. from which Father Hussmann took flying lessons.

EUROPEAN AIRPORTS
BEST, LINDBERGH SAYS

None in U. S. Compares at Present, He Tells Congressional Committee.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 1.—Col.
Charles A. Lindbergh thinks that one airport will not be sufficient for cities of the future and that the United States has no fields comparable to the best in Europe.
"None of the airports in this country today," he told a joint Congressional committee studying the needs of the national capital in this respect, "can be rated as a model for the future, but a number of cities are now constructing airports that will be good for the future."

He asserted that there will be a great increase in flying with the formation of flying clubs and added that even now there is more private flying in this country than abroad.

Advances made in the development of apparatus to permit landing on fields covered by fogs also were described by the flyer. This may be done, he said, by the use of radio beams between points of departure and destination, coupled with use of another beam at the landing field which would direct the angle of the plane's glide to the ground. These devices are soon to be tried out in the air mail service, he said.

Most of the present activity in commercial transport is on the Pacific Coast, he declared, attributing this in part to the climate and in part to a fund given by Daniel Guggenheim to the transport line which showed the greatest necessity for a loan to help its operation. The award went to the Western Airways Express.

He predicted that a transport service would be open to South America soon so that a passenger could get aboard at New York or Washington and fly directly in multi-engine planes to Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro.

Discussing the location of an airport in Washington, for which he was specifically asked to appear before the committee, Lindbergh said that one of the most important things to be considered was its distance from the city. He pointed out that if it takes an hour or so to go from the field to the central part of the city, advantage of speed of air travel is greatly reduced. He added that the fact that one field might be covered by fog did not detract greatly from its value as most cities would have several in the future with the probability that one would be free from fog.

ator Bingham of Connecticut during a recess for an impromptu reception. After the Senators had

FLYER KILLED IN NIGHT CRASH

U. S. ENFORCES DRY ACT ONLY IN SPOTS, LA GUARDIA SAYS

Most of 1872 Agents Centered in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and San Francisco.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Declaring President Hoover in his speech before the Associated Press had made it clear that respect and obedience of law was a Federal question, Representative La Guardia (Rep., N. Y.), charged in the House today that the Government was "making no attempt to enforce the prohibition law equally throughout the United States."

"I charge," he said, "that the Federal Government is doing exactly that which the President says no individual has the right to do, to wit, to say which law shall obey and which law it shall not obey."

As an example, La Guardia, who is a wet, said the Treasury had assigned 328 agents to New York State with an area of 47,654 square miles and a population of 11,530,000, while placing only 237 enforcement officers in the State of Virginia, North and South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee and Porto Rico with an area of 481,426 square miles and a population of 24,318,699.

$150,000,000 More Needed.
"The Government should be the first to put into practice the policy and the principles declared by the President of the United States," he added, "and in order to do that it will be necessary for Congress to immediately appropriate $150,000,000 in addition to the appropriation already made for the next fiscal year."

He declared that by centering the bulk of its 1872 agents in New York City, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and San Francisco, the Government "says that the law shall be enforced in isolated spots and there shall be no enforcement to speak of anywhere else."

La Guardia took issue with the President's statement that of the total number of convictions in federal cases last year less than 8 per cent resulted from prohibition.

"This statement is clearly erroneous," he said, adding that the President would have been correct if he had said that 8 per cent were for direct violation of the prohibition law.

Raw Liquor and Raw Youth.
The fact remains, he said, that "over 50 per cent of the present crime is a direct result of prohibition. The unsupervised and indiscriminate sale of strong and raw liquor to minors is responsible for a large increase in cases of violence."

La Guardia contended the recent shooting by a Washington policeman of a liquor suspect who used a smoke screen in attempting to escape was unjustifiable. He charged also that during the annual maneuvers of the American fleet off Panama, more than a million dollars was spent by the personnel in Panama for liquor during 20 days' shore leave.

"Hoover," he added, "willingly accepted the support of nationally known and outstanding wet leaders who openly and actively supported his candidacy."

He included in this list Senators Edge of New Jersey, William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, Senator Moses of New Hampshire, former Representative Morin of Pennsylvania, former Representative Hill of Maryland, Conrad Mann of Kansas City and Mayor Thompson of Chicago.

La Guardia said modification of the law would end "outrageous gang fights and racketeering now so firmly established in many parts of the country."

Wife Divorces Nelson Hartman.
Mrs. Dorothy Ringer Hartman obtained a divorce from Nelson Hartman, lawyer, 564 Adelaide avenue, University City, in Circuit Judge Muller's court at Clayton yesterday, on the ground of general indignities. Hartman filed a denial but did not contest the suit. They were married in 1924 and separated last Sunday. Mrs. Hartman's maiden name was restored.

Even the motor-wise are amazed at the difference DRIVE A CHRYSLER

DURING

"Learn-the-Difference" MONTH

Only one week of "Learn-the-Difference" Month—and already new waves of Chrysler enthusiasm all over the country!

People are talking Chrysler as they never have talked before. This difference! That difference! A new surprise here, a new thrill there.

But we want you to do more than merely hear this difference in words. We want you to see and feel and experience it—in facts, in results!

Visit any Chrysler dealer's showroom—let us point out Chrysler's exclusive features—explain its advanced design—demonstrate Chrysler's unmatched performance.

Chrysler is not only different in the big obvious things. It is different in the little things that mean so much in the pleasure and convenience of driving a motor car.

In design and construction—Chrysler is far and away the leader—as unlike any other motor car as day and night.

You have heard of the "Silver-Dome" engine. But do you know the difference between this

Any Chrysler Dealer in the Group Listed Below

Will gladly give you a thorough demonstration—you at the wheel, if you wish—to prove to you that there is an amazing difference in Chrysler performance and all other performance.

and other engines in principle—and what that difference means to you in power and speed? See and drive a Chrysler—today!

The motoring world is singing the praises of the 7-bearing crankshaft. But do you know that Chrysler not only has a 7-bearing crankshaft—which is a vital difference from many other cars—it has a special Chrysler-designed counter-weighted 7-bearing crankshaft? See what it does for extra smoothness, extra evenness and extra quietness.

Chrysler has gone farther—much farther—than most other cars in the generous use of rubber. Rubber engine mountings that insulate the engine from the chassis. Rubber shock insulators that replace the old-style metal spring shackles. Hence, a delightful difference in the effortless ease of travel.

We could fill this whole page with type telling why Chrysler is so vitally different. But a five-minute inspection, followed by a brief drive, will tell the story far more graphically and completely than miles of printed words.

That's the reason for Chrysler "Learn-the-Difference" Month. So that you may learn the all-inclusive superiority of Chrysler, see it—experience it—accept it as a fact.

—and thereby learn the difference between the Chrysler and any other car in the world.

SEPH COSTELLO FREED OF MURDER AND ROBBERY

As He Fails to Produce Witness Against St. Louisan Held in Belleville Jail Four Months. Charges of murder and robbery are dismissed against Joseph Costello, 34 years old, of St. Louis, at Belleville today when the State failed to produce an important witness.

Costello has been in jail four months and, under Illinois law, a defendant must be tried within a period, or released. An Assistant State's Attorney told the court that efforts to find the witness, Clarence Siger, of East St. Louis, had failed.

Costello was charged with participation in the murder of John Einhardt, Cicero (Ill.) gangster, whose body, with six bullet wounds, was found near French Village last July 15. Don Shelton, St. Louis, and Harvey Butler, East St. Louis, were convicted on charges of manslaughter in the case and are now serving 14-year sentences in Joliet prison.

A charge of robbery against Edward Jarrett of East St. Louis was dismissed because of insufficient evidence.

TWO BOTTLES OF KONJOLA ENDED 4 YEARS MISERY

St. Louis Lady Freed of Stomach Trouble—Family Enthusiastic About New Remedy.

"O, that I could have had Konjola sooner!" How frequently this thought is expressed in the spoken and written endorsements of this celebrated medicine, by those who have found in this super-compound their first and only relief from the pangs of suffering and disease.

MRS. J. A. RODERIQUE.

Only a few weeks ago this amazing medicine was introduced in St. Louis, but already the news of its victories over the most obstinate cases has spread far and wide; daily throngs gather at the Walgreen Drug Stores, 515 Olive street, and 6100 Easton avenue, where the Konjola Men are explaining how and why Konjola succeeds when all else fails to give relief in cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles, and in nervousness and kindred ailments. Konjola is pre-eminently a medicine of performance, not promises. Its ingredients, working together and individually, go at once to the seat of the trouble; the very source of the disease. Only a medicine that does this is worthy of the name. Konjola is not concerned with mere temporary relief; the mission of this medicine is to restore new and abundant health, lasting and glorious. The files of Konjola fairly overflow with the experiences like that of Mrs. J. A. Roderique, 3256 Weisbach avenue, St. Louis. Beaming with newly found health, happy to be free from suffering, Mrs. Roderique said to the Konjola Men a few days ago:

"O, that I could have had Konjola sooner! I was so ill and discouraged that I was on the verge of giving up my efforts to escape from the ills that beset me. For four years I had stomach trouble that refused to yield in the slightest to any of the medicines or treatments I took. Foods fermented gases that caused intense pains in my chest. A sour condition of my stomach caused me to belch up bits of undigested foods and a sour liquid. Each morning I awoke with a sharp pain in my back. During the day I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells. It was while my hope was at the lowest ebb that I first heard of Konjola.

"I was attracted by the many glowing endorsements of this new medicine, and fell to wondering if it could help me. Was any medicine worth a trial in my case? I finally determined to find out for myself, and I started on Konjola. To my astonishment and delight, the second bottle revealed to me that I had found an honest medicine and one that would do all that is claimed for it. Steadily, rapidly my condition improved. Digestion was restored and the pains, dizziness and headaches vanished. In two weeks I was completely well. My family has taken this medicine and are all enthusiastic about it. I will personally verify every word of this statement, for I believe Konjola is the medicine every sufferer needs."

Konjola is a remedy that Nature might have compounded. Konjola brings health to old and young alike; it is the medicine for all people.

The Konjola Men are at the Walgreen Drug Stores, 515 Olive street and 6100 Easton avenue, St. Louis, where they are meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

Their petition related that they bought the tract in July, 1923, and were successful in their venture until last July, when the Beehler company began operations. Living plants have been destroyed and the soil has been rendered useless for future cultivation, the petition alleges.

Hidden Ball Trick Enables Sox to Turn Triple Play

CHICAGO, May 1.—The first triple play of the season in Chicago took so long in execution that the Sox were able to turn a triple play.

During the excitement, Jamieson, who was in the position of first base, threw the ball to second base, where it was caught by the second baseman, who then threw it to third base, where it was caught by the third baseman.

At Lexington, the first race, claiming, 3-year-olds and up, was won by the 3-year-old colt, who was owned by the Loma Stable.

Twink, first horse ever owned by the Loma Stable, was one of the first flight of 2-year-olds during 1928 and he may prove the champion 3-year-old.

MAKES WARLIKE SHOW

Feature of May Day
Festivals in Moscow.

May 1.—The roar of batteries, the hum-
ing of motor squadrons and the elatter of cavalry, artillery, infantry and tanks blended with the blare of huge bands, the hurrahs of marching troops and the chimes of the Kremlin to make this May day celebration in Red Square impressive.

The demonstration differed from all previous ones in so far as the foreign military attaches, in front of Lenin's mausoleum, were permitted to witness the Red army's achievements in keeping abreast of the world's most modern war equipment. Twenty-five huge black tanks, many more baby tanks and armored motor cars of recent construction drove by, causing a wave of enthusiasm as they proceeded.

ADMITTS HE HAD THREE WIVES, BUT NOT FIVE

Machinist Held as Bigamist Lays Trouble to Too Much Mother-in-Law.

Edward Schwalm, 31-year-old machinist, is in jail charged with having five wives. He admits having three. He is charged with bigamy because a quarrel with his most recent mother-in-law led to his identification by a neighbor as the husband of a friend of hers.

Sunday Schwalm quarreled with Mrs. Frances Griffey, mother of Mrs. Marie Schwalm, whom he married in November, 1927. He was arrested on a peace disturbance charge. A neighbor who witnessed the quarrel recognized Schwalm and communicated with Mrs. Carrie Schwalm, 2126 Washington avenue.

The latter told Assistant Circuit Attorney Griffin she had married Schwalm in 1924 and left him because she learned he had three other wives. When he married her, she said, he had a wife in Collinsville and two in California.

Schwalm's version, related to a reporter at the jail, was this: "I've been married three times. I never lived in California and I haven't any wives there. In 1921 I met Velma Escar at Collinsville and I married her. I left her after a few months. It was another case of too much mother-in-law. "I returned to St. Louis and, in 1924, I met Carrie Marlin at a carnival. We were married, but lived together only a few months. I gave her $55 and told her to get a divorce.

"She never got a divorce, but I heard later that Velma had divorced me and in November, 1927 I married Marie Colbert. A lawyer told me it was all right, because I never was really married to Carrie on account of being married to Velma.

"I didn't mean to do anything wrong, but I guess the policeman at the station was right. He told me, 'You're all right, Ed, but you're a darn fool. You're just too soft.' Schwalm's last wife is 19 years old. They have a 2-year-old daughter.

BILL TO PUBLISH K. K. K. NAMES PASSES ILLINOIS HOUSE

Measure Presented by Negro Member From Chicago Evokes Bitter Debate.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 1.—The Illinois House approved a bill introduced by Representative William E. King, Negro, Republican of Chicago, providing for publication of names of members of the Ku Klux Klan. The vote was 80 to 39.

Presented to the House by King as a racial question, the bill evoked one of the bitterest debates of the session into which religious issues of the national political campaign were freely drawn.

The measure now goes to the Senate for further consideration.

TARIFF REVISION BILL DRAFTED

Measure Will Be Introduced in House Friday or Saturday.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The tariff revision bill will be introduced in the House either Friday or Saturday, Congressman Tilson of Connecticut, the Republican leader, said today after a conference with Chairman Hawley of the Ways and Means Committee.

The measure will not be taken up for debate until next week, however, as several days will be given the membership to study its manifold provisions for purposes of comparison with the present law. The bill thus will be given to the House for consideration four months from the date the full committee began public hearings on the subject.

BILL FOR NEW STYLE STREET CAR FRANCHISE HALTS IN LEGISLATURE

Wisconsin Municipalities Experience With In-terminate Grants Cause Kinney to Hold It Up

'SEVERANCE CHARGE' PROVIDED IN MEASURES

Probably Would Prove Heavy Cost, in Event Louis Should Attempt Purchase Street Railways

By CURTIS A. BETTS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 1.—The experience of municipalities in Wisconsin with the indeterminate permit law, which first came to attention of members of the Legislature yesterday in a dispatch from Madison, Wis., published in the Post-Dispatch, may have the effect of delaying action on a similar bill in the Senate, and possibly defeat the act.

Senator Kinney of St. Louis, chairman of the Municipal Operations Committee, has the feeling of the bill, said it had the intention to call up the matter for passage today, but after reading the Wisconsin bill he was undecided whether to proceed or to delay action pending conferences with representative of the Transportation Survey Commission of St. Louis, which appeared the act.

There is no possibility that a permit law, as it is termed here, but which is another name for the indeterminate permit law in Wisconsin, only act which has a chance of passage has been limited to transportation companies and to the City of St. Louis. A general application to the entire State, as all utilities, except telephone companies, was defeated. It was called up for engrossment in the House several weeks ago. A duplicate of that bill, introduced in the Senate by Senator Cave of Fulton, has not been reported by the committee and Cave said he had no intention of urging its passage.

In general, the terminable bill for transportation utilities in St. Louis, which has been passed by the House, and is on the calendar for passage in the Senate, provides that such utilities may, under to the city their franchise and obtain permits to operate, the city has no right at any time to purchase the properties, either at an appraisal, or, in case of failure of agreement, at a valuation fixed by the Public Service Commission.

The "Severance Damages," as was told in the Post-Dispatch yesterday, in Wisconsin, where it applies to all utilities and all municipalities, the experience has been that when a municipality sought to purchase a utility, the price demanded was so excessive that the purchase could not be made. One illustration was an electric plant in a Wisconsin village on which a physical value of $100,000 leaped to a valuation of $150,000 as the price demanded from the city. $12,000 the amount being for "severance damages," and $47,000 as "severance damages" claimed as damages to the owning company from the fact that the particular municipal consideration would be removed from the total plant of the company owning and operating the "severance damage" property is contained in the Missouri bill and probably would be a considerable item if the City of St. Louis should attempt to purchase a Public Service Co. This is a fairly true in view of the condition of the bill after its amendment in its passage through the House.

Would Affect Only St. Louis
An originally introduced measure applied to all transportation companies in the State. It was amended, it applies only to St. Louis, even St. Louis County is excluded. Thus, if St. Louis should attempt to purchase the street railway company, it could not buy it, as it is in St. Louis County. A purchase of the street railway would make the county financially valueless and there would be the "severance damages" would come in.

The bill would affect street, electric and subway railways, and any other means of transportation within the city. Under it any operating company, by surrendering to the Public Service Commission its franchise and with the consent of the city, receive a terminable permit which practically would be

'SEVERANCE CHARGE'

By CURTIS A. BETTS.
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 1.—The experience of municipalities in Wisconsin with the indeterminate grant law, which first came to the attention of members of the Legislature yesterday in a dispatch from Madison, Wis., published in the Post-Dispatch, may have the effect of delaying action on a similar bill in the senate, and possibly may defeat the act.

Senator Kinney of St. Louis, who is chairman of the Municipal Corporation Committee, has the handling of the bill, and it had been his intention to call up the measure for passage today, but that after reading the Wisconsin story he was undecided whether to proceed or to delay action pending conference with representatives of the Transportation Survey Committee of St. Louis, which sponsored the act.

There is no possibility that Missouri as a whole, soon will have a similar grant law as it is being framed here, but which is merely another name for the indeterminate grant law of Wisconsin. The only act which has a chance of passage has been limited to transportation companies and to the City of St. Louis. A general bill, applicable to the entire state and to all utilities, except telephone companies, was defeated when called up for engrossment in the House several weeks ago. A dispatch of the bill, introduced in the Senate by Senator Cave of Fulton, has not been reported by the committee and Cave said he had no intention of urging its passage.

The "severance damages," as was told in the Post-Dispatch yesterday, in Wisconsin, where the law applies to all utilities and to all municipalities, the experience has been that when a municipality sought to purchase a utility the damages demanded was so excessive that the purchase could not be made. One illustration was cited of an electric plant in a Wisconsin village, on which a physical valuation of $44,000 was placed, but the amount being for "going value," and $47,000 as "severance damages," claimed as damages to the particular municipal plant after consideration would be given for the total plant of the company owning and operating it. The "severance damage" provided in the bill in the Missouri House and probably would be a considerable item if the City of St. Louis should attempt to purchase the street car line. This is particularly true in view of the contents of the bill after its amendment in its passage through the House.

Should Affect Only St. Louis.
The originally introduced measure applied to all transportation companies in the state. As it now stands, it applies only to St. Louis, and St. Louis County being included. Thus, if St. Louis should attempt to purchase the street car line, it could not buy that line if it is in St. Louis County. A purchase of the city line would make the county line equally valueless and there is no chance of the "severance damages" being paid.

Mussolini Would Put Economic Factors to the Fore in Weighing Needs of Nations for Armament

Points Out Influence of Trade and Territorial Causes on Countries' Ambitions—States What Italy Will Accept.

By BENITO MUSSOLINI.
(Copyright, 1929. All rights reserved.)
ROME, April 27.

THE dramatic American intervention at the sixth session of the League of Nations Preparatory Disarmament Commission at Geneva has served to resuscitate this dormant assembly dulled by the thick mists of discussions and proposals.

This American step is like a fresh Atlantic breeze sweeping into the assembly from across the seas to lift it from its torpidity. It can be called a bold and courageous step in the face of previous dilatoriness.

Will it be productive of practical results?

The outcry for disarmament is 10 years old, and, save for obsolete material of the last war, armaments have kept on increasing. The armies and navies of the strong—and even of the weak—today are mightier than ever in time of peace. The land and air forces of the great Powers could crush the pre-war German army, the greatest military machine the world had ever seen to that day, within three months. The fleet of England could outstrip and outmaneuver England's own pre-war fleet.

Peace Pact and More Arms.

The peace-loving year of 1929, with its Kellogg pact and disarmament talk, is magnificently armed. It is better armed than the war-making year of 1914.

Disarmament has been before the public mind incessantly this last decade and so volitionally has it been preached without the accomplishment of one single concrete aim for peace that the very word with all its fascinating charm and lavish hopes has become a sign for doubt and misgivings and sounds almost synonymous with Utopia. People are tired of the delay, discussion and scheming efforts of governments to retard progress and to confuse the real issues. The sixth session of the Preparatory Commission for Disarmament, meeting at Geneva at the time this is written, has given ample proof of the dilatory tactics of governments and of their purposes to confound the real issues.

Well might M. Louvain of Holland, presiding over the present session of the League's disarmament Commission, have prefaced the proceedings with his address, which said: "If I have called this Commission, it is certainly not because I have hoped that the moment has arrived to bring to an end this preparatory work and to prepare to convene a conference for the reduction of armaments. This will not be possible unless the powers interested come to some agreement amongst themselves. For the present, agreement does not exist, and I say this without equivocation in order that public opinion may have no illusions."

Fog Banks Grow Thicker.

The League and the Disarmament Commission have discussed for years, and work and have discussed among themselves for years, but we have arrived at a point where disarmament is more confused than ever. The whole subject is enshrouded in fog banks of plans and in diversity of interests. Adding to the already murky atmosphere, three other nations brought new plans for the solution of the problem so that discussion can go on ad infinitum, the fog becoming heavier and heavier.

So far, the word "failure" can be written across all attempts at disarmament or reduction of armaments. Even the much praised Washington conference, which had given hope that the naval competition of the big nations had been brought to an end, turned out to be nothing but the commencement of a great naval race in other kinds of armament. Hardly had the ink of the signatories to the agreement become dry when new levels were laid and large sums voted for the construction of ships not included in the pact, thus requiring not in reduction, in case of England and America, but increase. These two nations still are in the race and no one knows where it will end.

The agreement or presumed agreement between England and France on armament has been said to have been the deciding factor in inducing the United States to order the immediate construction of 15 new cruisers. These new cruisers and counter-maneuvering cannot be interpreted as showing the general trend in favor of reduction.

Little Chance for Success.

In any new conference, where do we all stand? In that conference the world would know or would think it knows just what France and England could agree upon, and this would place other participants at a distinct disadvantage in trying to fix the real and true basis of discussion. Under the present atmosphere of doubt and

PENNSYLVANIA FIGHTS B. & O. FOR CONTROL IN EAST

Van Sweringens' C. & O. Allied With Latter Road in Battle for Small Lines.

WABASH APPLICATION REVIVES LOREE PLAN

Chicago, Baltimore, New York Link Proposed—New York Central May Take Sides.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 1.—The New York Times says that a fight of millions for control of strategic railroads in the East, comparable to that waged between the Pennsylvania and the Gould interests in the early part of the century, has been started between the Pennsylvania Railroad on the one side and the Baltimore and Ohio, the Chesapeake and Ohio on the other.

Through the Wabash Railway, which it controls, the Pennsylvania is to apply to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to acquire roads south by the Baltimore and Ohio and the Van Sweringens' C. & O. and link them into a fifth trunk line between Chicago and Baltimore and New York.

Thus, the Pennsylvania will receive the plan sponsored by Leonard F. Loree and defeated early last year by the united action of the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio and the Chesapeake and Ohio.

Wabash to File Petition.

The Wabash plans to file with the commission a merger petition which would include the Western Maryland, The Baltimore and Ohio, in a recent merger petition, asked for both the Wabash and the Western Maryland. The Pennsylvania obtained control of the Wabash through purchase of the Loree holdings. At the same time the Pennsylvania obtained control of the Lehigh Valley Railroad and the Wabash at Buffalo and would form the New York branch of the new system.

Between the Wabash and the Western Maryland lies the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, controlled by Frank E. and Charles P. Taplin, and the Wheeling and Lake Erie, controlled by O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringens. The Times said it was accepted that the Taplins would act in concert with the Pennsylvania in the merger move.

Blow to New York Central.

Merger with the Wheeling and Lake Erie recently was asked by the Chesapeake and Ohio. The Times pointed out that the move of the Pennsylvania is a blow not only to the Baltimore and Ohio and the Chesapeake and Ohio, but to the New York Central, and might force the Central, heretofore neutral, to come out openly in support of the merger plans of the Baltimore and Ohio and the Chesapeake and Ohio.

The Times said it is understood the Pennsylvania had sought to win the support of the New York Central by offering control of the Lehigh Valley to the New York Central. The New York Central refused to let the B. & O. full control of the Reading and the Central of New Jersey, both of which the B. & O. desires. The paper said the Pennsylvania's new plans are interpreted as showing it has relinquished hope of active support from the Central.

In 1904 George Gould, as successor to the railroad dynasty founded by his father, Jay Gould, began assembling a transcontinental railroad. The battle with the Pennsylvania started when the Gould interests bought the Pittsburgh and West Virginia and extended it to Pittsburgh. Only a short gap between that road and the Western Maryland, also acquired by the Goulds, remained to complete the transcontinental system. Recently the Pittsburgh and West Virginia received permission from the Interstate Commission to bridge this gap. The Gould system was dismembered in a subsequent period of financial stress.

POPE REVIEWS VISITING PILGRIMS' MOTOR PARADE

Most of Those to Receive Apostolic Blessing Were From His Old Diocese of Milan.

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, May 1.—Pope Pius XI today received a great number of pilgrim motorists in the court of St. Damaso, he made a brief speech, bestowed his blessing upon them and watched them pass their cars in review before him. Most of the members of the "motor pilgrimages" were from his former diocese in Milan, belonging to the Automobile Club of that city.

The club's inspectors saw to it that every car in the procession had been thoroughly washed and polished.

The policing of the vast throng of machines and their drivers was done by Vatican attendants, all wearing the brassard of yellow and white, the papal colors, with the pope's coat of arms in the center. The visitors were warned not to sound their horns too often, and not to open their couteaux.

At a given signal the unusual procession made its way into the inner courtyard and there in stately rows awaited the pope's arrival. He mounted a specially prepared throne facing the assemblage, having before him a new automobile recently presented to him. After he had pronounced the apostolic benediction, the motorists passed in review their cars standing in the Fascist fashion with one hand free from the wheel.

After the review, the pope received a delegation of the Milan Auto Club in rooms fronting on the court of the Belvedere.

DEMOGRAPHIC DEFICIT CUT TO $800,000, RASKOB SAYS

National Chairman Asks Further Reduction to $500,000 Within Fortnight.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, announced in an interview here yesterday afternoon that the party deficit of more than $1,550,000 at the end of the last campaign had been reduced to about $800,000, with the prospect that it would be cut to less than $500,000 within the next two weeks.

He added that he expected the whole deficit to be "cleaned up" long before the end of the year. Questioned as to individual contributors Raskob said that he later would make public the full list. Most of them, he said, were Easterners. He estimated that sales of former Gov. Smith's speeches in book form accounted for $200,000 or more of the collections.

To a question as to how long he would remain as chairman of the committee, Raskob replied that he had "no intention of resigning."

He added that the job had been "interesting" and that he intended to do his part in the organization now being created to function during the hundred and sixty-five days in the year.

Trotzky Assumes Labor Leaders.

By the Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 1.—Leon Trotzky celebrated May day by breaking the monotony of his exile and receiving Sidney and Beatrice Webb, prominent British Labor leaders, guests at Robert College. No longer hopeful of admission to another country, Trotzky has rented a villa at Prinikio Island in the Marmora Sea.

He added that the job had been "interesting" and that he intended to do his part in the organization now being created to function during the hundred and sixty-five days in the year.

The others voting for the resolution included Black and Heflin of Alabama; Fletcher and Trammell of Florida; George and Harris of Georgia; McKellar and Tyson of Tennessee; Stinson of North Carolina; Sheppard of Texas; Blaise of South Carolina and Thomas of Oklahoma, all Democrats. Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, and 19 other Democrats voted with 49 Republicans against the resolution.

Before the roll call was taken Heflin sought the floor to deliver another talk, but Watson refused to yield. Then Heflin said he wanted "the people to know what's going on here." Watson replied that he believed "the people knew."

"Up until noon yesterday," said Watson, "of the pages in the congressional record for this extra session called for farm relief, 33½ have been devoted to a discussion of farm relief and 32½ to the discussions of the Senator from Alabama, which I don't believe have a place here or ever did have a place here."

When Heflin then announced that he was going to talk again as soon as he could gain the floor, Watson asked unanimous consent for an immediate vote and a roll call was ordered.

After the vote Heflin attempted to get the floor, but Watson, who had been recognized by the clerk, refused to yield when the Alabama said he wanted to give a "message to the American people."

The non-committal attitude which has characterized the United States delegation's maneuvering before every important development is again apparent. The tables have evidently been turned, however. During the first week's sessions the Americans kept Lord

JAPAN SUGGESTS 5-POWER SESSION ON CUT IN NAVIES

Geneva Delegate Instructed to Have U. S. Limitation Program Considered by Sub-Committee.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, May 1.—It was learned here today that Count Saito, Japanese delegate to the Preparatory Commission on Disarmament at Geneva, had been instructed to agree to a proposal whereby a sub-committee would be formed by delegates from the five leading powers to consider proposals of the United States delegate, Hugh S. Gibson, for broad naval limitation.

British Opposition Apparently Has Blocked New Naval Parley.

Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co. (The New York World Telegram & Sun, London Edition).

GENEVA, May 1.—British opposition to discussion of naval questions appears to have blocked hopes of a five-power naval parley this summer and to have influenced Washington to accept diplomatic interchanges in place of consolidating differences before the forum of public opinion provided here by the League's preparatory disarmament commission.

Despite previous declarations by Ambassador Gibson that Washington sincerely desired to lay all its cards upon the table and was ready to disclose to the commission President Hoover's formula for overcoming the naval deadlock, the American delegation said in an interview yesterday that nothing but procedure should be discussed during the present session. Admiral Hilary P. Jones of the United States delegation intimated that "Washington in 1931" was the logical time and place to expect concrete results.

The non-committal attitude which has characterized the United States delegation's maneuvering before every important development is again apparent. The tables have evidently been turned, however. During the first week's sessions the Americans kept Lord

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrongs, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Case of Mrs. Bennett.

BEFORE declaring a piece of literature obscene, it seems to me that it would be wise first to understand what is meant by that term. In accordance with the popular criterion, it would seem that any frank discussion of the whys and wherefores of life is obscene. The best definition, however, that I can submit for the word obscene is, namely, "The kind of any human being who is so lascivious and degraded that he reaches out greedily to clutch to his cancerous soul any slight allusion to the sexual experiences of the human organism."

Under that standard of judgment, the dirty minds of the jurors in Mrs. Bennett's trial, and the vile insinuations which they evidently read into that pamphlet, are the only obscene things connected with the case.

Obscene—observed! Some fanatic suddenly unearthed a delightfully suggestive word; a word that rolls beautifully off the tongue; a word that one hesitates to apply ordinarily; but a fitting and most proper descriptive term when applied to the unclean minds of a so-called "enlightened" public.

CECELIA BISHOP.

Moark Lake.

I HAVEN'T seen that the Legislature has asked for suggestions from the people of the State in the naming of the projected lake on the Osage River, but nevertheless I am interested and offer as my contribution, the name

MOZARK LAKE.

It can be readily seen that the word combines Missouri and the Ozarks. It has geographical value, is easily understood and is also euphonious.

J. A. D.

What Mark Twain Thought of St. Louis.

I WAS interested in S. G. M.'s remarks asking why St. Louis always goes outside the city for its big men.

Anybody should know that who has read any of the writings by any of Missouri's writers of note.

Now H. C. Brockmeyer is all wet in his attempt to tell S. G. M. where the trouble really is—let me try and help them both out of their error.

Missouri exports mules, not jacks, and it does not import genius. If you think I am wrong then just turn to Mark Twain's "Life on the Mississippi."

Here, in his comment on some of his neighbors, drifting down from the county of Pike to St. Louis to take up a—anything you want to call it, says Mark: "If you have a damn fool and you want to realize more for him than you can any place in the world, ship him to St. Louis."

Now, they have been doing just that thing for many years and what can you expect of that type of citizen after he grows up and takes the lead in our good old town.

We are sure strong on the importation of that type.

STEAMBOAT BILL.

The Vaccination Controversy.

WHY so much controversy between France and England over the vaccination question? It is admitted by the Minister of Health of England that the number of cases of smallpox there is not much above the average. We also learn that the death rate from this disease in the whole of England doesn't equal 1 per cent, and the latest scheme to save vaccination from reproach is to classify all eruptions as smallpox, and even classify contacts as smallpox, although the eruption may be minus. Only in this way can they find an excuse for continuing vaccination.

England's investigating committee has decided that in the future vaccination is to be the one-mark type with dilute lymph, although its protective power is quite unknown. It is to laugh!

The latest European desire to, petition their government to abolish compulsory vaccination is Finland.

E. W. ANDERSON.

A Dangerous Crossing.

THE writer is a resident on West Pine boulevard and has to pass the points of Sarah and West Pine boulevard daily almost at the risk of his own life. The traffic at that point is terrible, especially between the hours of 4 to 6 p. m. Also, there is no policeman stationed there at the times most needed for school children coming from school to be escorted or directed safely across the street.

Don't they want to insure the safety of people passing on West Pine as well as Lindell and McPherson? The traffic on these streets mentioned at Sarah is no heavier than on West Pine boulevard.

The writer has personally witnessed three minor accidents on West Pine and Sarah since Jan. 1st in the evening. I don't understand just why the city doesn't install a stop and go signal at that point; surely it would pay to save a few accidents and lives.

One sets fire of dodging cars and automobiles and watching school children taking hair-raising chances crossing such a point.

CHAR. RIEKENBERG JR.

PARITY OF SEA POWER.

The circumstances which made the freedom of the seas, or at least the opinion of the freedom of the seas, valuable to us have gone. If they have not we are not in a position to enforce them. The question of freedom of the seas must be settled, and an agreement with the United States reached on this point.

This statement was made by Ramsay MacDonald in his speech opening the Labor campaign. It is a good deal for any man in English public life to say. No one else has had the courage or candor to say it.

The English notion of freedom of the seas is accurately expressed in the legend "Britannia rules the waves." That is more than a tradition. It is their ark of the covenant, so to speak, the shield and buckler of British sovereignty and safety.

Yet the day of England's supremacy as a sea power is done. In a competitive building program with the United States our greater wealth and resources must prevail. Sentimentalists who dote on the soothing syrup of words may declaim that such a rivalry between the English-speaking nations is unthinkable, but people whose judgment is shaped by the facts perceive already the beginning of just such a race.

It has been said, and is probably true, that the United States would today be the first naval power except for the Washington Arms Conference, by which we scrapped construction against England's blue prints. Failure of the second effort to extend limitations and reductions when the Coolidge conference of 1927 adjourned in icy futility was chargeable largely to the attitude of the British representative, that belligerent old Tory, Admiral Bridgeman, who lives, dreams and struts in the nineteenth century. By way of reply we are officially speaking in cruisers.

This question of relative sea power is discussed frankly in the April American Review of Reviews by Frank Simonds. Speaking of our participation in the World War, Mr. Simonds bluntly says, "There is a dominating conviction that in some fashion we were dragged into the conflict contrary to our interests and our own desires; that the consequences were unlucky for us and that under no circumstances must we be dragged in again."

We believe that is a fair statement of prevalent American sentiment. In the event, therefore, of another European war, we do not want to be in the position of carrying on trade by permission of Great Britain. We have practical considerations in the matter of protecting our foreign commerce and insular dependencies which measurably match those of England, but our first concern is to be able under any circumstances to assert and exercise our rights as a neutral, and to declare war solely on our own motion. That is a status we cannot have with England in control of the seas, because England, like any other nation similarly situated, is bound to construe the rights of neutrals according to her own necessities. Naval parity with England is our minimum.

That, it seems to us, is a reasonable amplification of Mr. MacDonald's pregnant sentence. The British Labor leader has the courage and intellectual integrity to face realities. It is the task of statesmanship everywhere to face all the realities. If they do, the work of the preliminary conference now in session in Geneva will be made easier; the destructive history of naval competition as written by Germany and England will not be repeated by England and the United States; substantial relief will be afforded from what Ambassador Gibson called "a war-taxed peace," and substantial progress made towards international friendship.

CHOP, LADIES, CHOP!

On the society page of the estimable Chicago Tribune we read that maids and matrons of the city by the lake are chopping and sawing wood in an effort to reduce waist, hips and abdomen. Given a spacious backyard, an ax, and the disposition to swing it, and they actually chop wood. Given a buck and saw, and the disposition to use them, and they actually saw wood. But, if any of these things is lacking, satisfactory results can still be obtained by going through the motions in one's boudoir. Here is what a Tribune feature writer has to say of the alternative:

It's an exercise I've tried out often on myself, so I can give a personal testimonial to its worth. Of course, if you have an ax, a log of wood and the place, well and good. But in your own little crowded bedroom it can be done in less space than it takes to swing a cat.

Palms together overhead, knees straight, legs apart a good spread, now hands down first between the legs five to ten times. Then with a turn at the waist bring the hands down on the right side. "Chop" as if you meant it. Do this five to ten times. Then hands up, over head again and come down on the left side, demolishing the cord of wood piled up there.

For two years or more we have felt that we would gladly give the price of two tickets to a Junior League ball to know what Col. Theodore Roosevelt would have said of Mr. Coolidge's mechanical horse. We would gladly give the price of four tickets to know what Abraham Lincoln would have said about this.

If the Taena-Arica dispute is really settled, college debating will very soon go into a tail spin.

UP TO THE SENATE.

Thanks to protests made against the scandalous obstructionist methods employed by the smalltown companies of Missouri in their effort to keep the laws from being amended, this important matter is now in much better case at Jefferson City.

The Ballou bill, reducing the rate on loans under $300 from 12 per cent a year to 8 per cent, outlawing salary buying, and imposing stricter regulation of the smalltown companies by the State, has been passed by the House and is now in the Senate. This bill supplies the omission made when the State originally undertook to place this class of money lending under regulation. The original bill, which had been modified by the Russell Sage Foundation, outlawed salary buying. The Ballou bill goes back to that point. If it passes the Legislature only earned salaries may be purchased. The loan companies will also be required to submit to the State Finance Department annual reports covering all phases of their business, which would enable the State to judge of the extent of the business and the fairness of interest rates to those engaged in it.

The matter is now up to the Senate. If the chairman of the Senate Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence can take the bill and refuse to consider it, as he has done with the Brogan bill, the jig is on. The obstructionist tactics of the loan companies will have won the battle, and the Legislature will have failed to rebuke them. The Senate can hardly afford to lend itself to such despicable practices. The conduct of Senator Buford, who has thus far refused to let this matter come to the floor, is a very serious denial of representative government. The Senate should say what it thinks of such one-man legislation by passing the Ballou bill over his head.

A NEW ROAD PROBLEM.

Usually a highway commission is beset by those whom good roads pass by. It is unusual for a commission to be asked by residents on a projected highway to divert the road from them.

Yet that very problem is created in Missouri by the growth of traffic and the unexpected incidence of the super-highway. There is objection to the super-highway. It brings an almost continuous stream of traffic. Immense freight and passenger carriers thunder over it at high speed. The very ground shakes.

The Missouri Highway Commission has its first problem of this sort in the protest against routing the principal east and west highway through Missouri along the Conway road in St. Louis County. The commission is bringing a short cut over the Missouri River into St. Louis. It has not yet decided on Conway road, but the preliminary survey passes that way. Acquiring in a request from the St. Louis County Court, the commission and its chief engineer will go over the ground with the court. The commission has, of course, the interest of the whole people to serve.

Nevertheless, there is a sound principle behind the objection to running a super-highway through such a neighborhood as has been created along the Conway road. All the principal roads in the county have by this time been given character. Some of them, as for instance the St. Charles Rock road and the Olive Street road, are not entirely residential. Others, like the La Due road, are highly residential. The Conway road is a residential road over most of the distance the proposed highway would traverse it. Property has been bought there upon this basis, and it would suffer by such an invasion. A trunk highway, as abundantly proved, is not the same thing as a residential country road.

The State Highway Commission will hardly wish to unmake the character of the Conway road. One of the investments out there, that of the Westwood Country Club, exceeds $1,000,000. The investment of the Sacred Heart Convent, which sought solitude, is also considerable. There are homesteads on the eastern end of the road that have sold for from $5000 to $7000 an acre. It has been suggested to the commission that at less expense to the State and an increase in the value of abutting property the highway could traverse the Hilber road. That is an unimproved road the character of which remains to be made. To send the highway over it would be quite another thing than to unmake the character of the Conway road.

This principle seems to us so sound that we cannot believe the commission will care to violate it after going over the ground.

THE WORST IS YET TO COME.

Benito Mussolini has taken on another job, and now, besides being Premier, he is Minister of Foreign Affairs, War, Marine, Aviation, Colonies, Interior, Labor and Public Works. But just wait till he tries to switch from suction to contract.

WHAT THEY SAW AT SEA.

It often happens, as everyone knows, that a decision which may at first seem ill advised turns out to be most fortunate. Consider for a moment the mirage which fascinated the passengers and crew of that Hamburg-American liner off the Grand Banks. Some of them insisted they were watching the Battle of Jutland, one pale but studious voyager declared he could see Queen Elizabeth in person sinking the Spanish Armada, another yelled "Nelson, Trafalgar, Rah, Rah, Rah," while a black-browed piratical individual who looked like a bootlegger, was rooting hard for the 1m Alone to sink that coast guard cutter. The Captain himself thought it was a flotilla at target practice, but later when two freighters with masts scraping the skies spread out their wings and disappeared beyond the horizon, dragging their quivering hulls of relative behind them, he knew it was an illusion. All of which goes to show that Bishop Cannon chose wisely in coming back home on the Leviathan.

GREAT BRITAIN'S SOLUTION.

How Great Britain is handling its liquor problem is illustrated by figures contained in a report of the United Kingdom Alliance. Since 1913 there has been a decrease of 29 per cent in the consumption of beer and 59 per cent in the consumption of spirits. This decline of drinking may be attributed in part to temperance teaching, but a more tangible explanation is that the tax on beer in the period 1912-1925 has increased 680 per cent, the tax on spirits 391 per cent. At the same time, the retail price of beer is 81 per cent over 1912 figures, and the retail price of spirits 75 per cent higher. It is true consumption of wine increased 25 per cent, but that hardly offsets the remarkable showing for beer and spirits.

Last year Great Britain's drink bill totaled approximately $1,400,000,000. Of that sum, approximately $600,000,000, or nearly one-half, goes into the British Treasury in the form of taxes.

There is, unfortunately, no way of reckoning the drink bill of the United States under prohibition, but, at bootleg prices, it must total a staggering sum. No taxes are paid on this business, except bootleggers' income taxes, which the government ironically accepts. Instead, the Federal Government is spending approximately $30,000,000 a year in enforcement activities.

In expounding his budget for the coming year to the House of Commons recently, Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill referred to lessening receipts from liquor taxation, saying: "This is an Exchequer embarrassment, but not a national misfortune." He deduced from tax figures the growth of nationwide temperance and compared what he called "a regulated freedom corrected by high taxation" with conditions in the United States.

Great Britain's policy of making liquor expensive and of enforcing the strict regulations controlling liquor-selling establishments is a sensible way to handle the problem.

Mrs. Nellie Burton, president of the Missouri W. C. T. U., says she is glad we have a national administration that is going to enforce the law, meaning, of course, prohibition. Inasmuch as the administration has announced that the Jones law does not mean what it says, we are still amazed by the very little it takes to make women glad.

THE NEW JOURNALISM.

Are Apes Intelligent?

When given problems which can be viewed in their entirety, apes show what seem to be the beginnings of human intelligence; a group of chimpanzees observed by Wolfgang Kohler solved a problem that stumped a three-year-old child; bright children of that age approach tests in the same way as do apes and experience the same difficulties.

Edgar James Swift, Professor of Psychology, Washington University, in Scribner's.

Do apes have a will? Do they choose between two or more possible acts that they may meet an emergency intelligently? These are important questions to day when fundamentalists are threatening youth with a chain of universities in which science shall be tested by the poetical interpretations of three thousand years ago. Intelligence tests have been given to chimpanzees and monkeys at various times, but usually the problems have been so planned that the animals taking the tests did not have a fair chance to show their ability. The customary method of finding out if an animal can do a thing is to put it into an elaborately constructed maze, and then to watch them as they gradually learn to avoid the paths which at their ends are closed to traffic. The length of time required, and the elimination of errors in finding the straight and narrow path that leads to food and happiness, measure the acquisition of physical skill. This method has taught us much about the way in which animals muddle through a problem; but it has told us nothing about the peculiar kind of intelligence which has been thought distinctively human.

Man survives a problem, and, if it is not beyond his ability, he immediately begins with the right method and solves it. At any rate, he usually has a reason for what he does. When a man, however, is given a problem which he cannot survey from start to finish, he blunders through it much as do the lower animals.

Evidently, if we are to learn whether chimpanzees have the beginnings of the same sort of intelligence that man possesses, they must be given problems which can be viewed in their entirety, otherwise the solution is largely a matter of chance. Tests of the intelligence of apes which meet the required conditions have recently been given, and the results are so significant that they open an immense field for thought. To put it briefly, these tests show that at least some apes select the right tool from among several useless ones. This shows that chimpanzees discriminate between serviceable and useless means to accomplish a purpose. It indicates the beginnings of intelligence of the human order. Let us assume, for instance, that a chimpanzee sees a choice bit of food outside of his cage and beyond his reach. Suppose, further, that four sticks of different lengths are lying on the floor of the cage. The ape picks up the shortest, takes it to the bars, observes the distance the banana from the cage, looks at the length of the stick, throws it down, and then selecting the longest of the four, reaches through the bars and draws the banana within reach. This is essentially what some chimpanzees have done. Naturally, an ape cannot be questioned about his reasons for discarding the short stick and selecting a longer one, but in doing so he does what man would do if he "saw" that the first stick would not reach the object.

If an animal meets a situation of this sort in the most satisfactory way—if he does what a man would do under similar circumstances—the question is: Does the animal see the essential factor in the problem? Did the chimpanzee of which we have been speaking, for example, see that the first stick which he picked up was too short, and that the longest would reach the banana? If he did, he reasoned, at least in a simple way, and the moment we have reasoning or thinking, we also have volition.

At times, again, chimpanzees make an important suited to the task in hand. Of course, their means of manufacturing implements is limited, since their teeth are the only tools which they can use. But the important fact is that they see the need, and use the only means which they possess for altering an object to meet the situation.

Wolfgang Kohler had the rare good fortune, during the World War, to be marooned with nine chimpanzees. Misfortunes sometimes bring their blessings, and the companionship of two anthropoid primates compensated the investigator for deprivation of the daily news from the battle front. The employment of boxes to reach the fruit was among the striking achievements of these chimpanzees. In time they learned to lift one box and place it upon another, then three were used, when two were not high enough, and at last they built a structure of four boxes, marvellous alike for its ingenuity and danger.

A few three years and four months old, when Fred Yerkes experimented, was unable to use two boxes to reach an object suspended from the ceiling. The object was placed at such a height as to be easily accessible if the child had put one box upon the other and climbed up. Neither fear of falling nor the size and weight of the boxes caused the failure. Some 15 attempts were made without the child once seeing the only solution of the difficulty.

More recent experiments, reported to the American Psychological Association but not yet published, indicate that bright children of three and a little older approach problems in the same way as do the apes and that they experience the same difficulties.

The difference between the abler chimpanzees and man, so far as incentives to action are concerned, is the variation in development and the immensely larger number of motives which knowledge adds to human volition. It may be doubted, however, whether the gap between chimpanzees and primitive man is wider than that between primitive and civilized men. The deficiency in the more intelligent apes is the absence of the bonds which connect ideas and memories. They more readily see the solution of a difficulty if the object to be secured and the means of getting it are visible in one comprehensive glance. They do not quickly see that four boxes far apart may be brought together and combined. Still less easily do they recall an in-vision object and realize its utility in a troublesome situation. Yet the mental tests were accomplished by the chimpanzees at which we have been speaking, and the accomplishment suggests an understanding of the difficulty. It indicates, at least, that some chimpanzees have passed to the human side of the boundary of intelligence and volition.

WHEN a Senator or Representative calls to his secretary:

"Ask Elmer, he knows."

And it is a sure bet that Elmer Lewis, young Superintendent of the House Document Room, does know. He is considered the best memory expert in the National capital. If there is such a thing as a human index he is one.

AS Superintendent of the House Document Room Lewis is one of the important cogs in the national legislative machinery. For it is to the Document Room that Representatives and Senators rush the pages for copies of bills and reports on legislation before Congress.

Approval or defeat of vitally important legislation frequently hinges upon the vote of the member of Congress to get certain papers filed in the Document Room. Minutes at such times are precious. The speckling legislation must have data means that the Document Room must be serviceable.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

And it does. But the story of how Lewis had more than 22,000 pieces of legislation to index and file during last congressional session. To the person who inquires for the status of legislation Lewis usually is able to do without reference to his cards.

Some of the things he knows are legislative are whether it is a House or Senate bill, resolution, private law or public bill.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

In addition he must know who introduced the measure, its number, the date of presentation, when it was referred to a committee, when reported—if at all—and its status from the time it reaches the calendar of either house until it is passed, been adjusted in conference, and finally signed or vetoed by the President.

To know this about 22,000 pieces of legislation seems impossible. While Lewis makes no claim to have all this information at his finger tips, Capitol folk regard it as a feat to be bet against. Knowledge of any measure which has been presented to Congress.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

LEWIS has been connected with the Document Room 16 years, and has been superintendent for almost five. During this time he has been superintendent several times. He has been made which added greatly to the service the Document Room renders.

Foremost among those has been compiling all of the laws on various subjects and grouping them so that interested may have easy access.

Under Lewis' administration the Document Room also provides material for student debaters and those engaged in legislative work. Members of Congress every year are flooded with requests for material of this or that subject. Lewis attends to these requests, providing copies of speeches made in Congress on the subject are desired.

ADDRESSES ADVERTISING CLUB

Don Bridge of Indianapolis Discusses Newspapers.

The Advertising Club of St. Louis held a special "Newspaper day" luncheon at Hotel Jefferson yesterday with Don Bridge, advertising director of the Indianapolis News, as principal speaker.

Bridge discussed advertising methods, describing newspaper advertising as a by-product of the publishing business which has made possible the growth of the press without interfering with the independence of newspapers. The extraordinary development of the United States, he declared, "probably would have been impossible without the universal circulation of the public press."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 1.

Another philanthropic romance, blooming under Broadway tangles, reached a spectacular finish recently. The Romeo was a rich and apparently happily married patron of the theater. The Juliet was a lovely young girl he had met on various evenings away from the family hearth.

His interest in her became avuncular. That is, she called him "Uncle." From the obscurity of a cellar cabaret she was sent off to a finishing school for a polishing, and this was followed by a careful vocal training under celebrated masters in Europe.

A naturally pleasant voice developed a richness, and following intense study in a dramatic school she was "firmed out" to stock companies for further development. She came back to Broadway and took a place in a chorus, having worked earnestly and faithfully.

So when the time was ripe for a debut, the "uncle" appeared in the role of the generous angel and produced extravagantly for her appearance in the leading role of a musical comedy. During this season process sly whispers of the attachments filtered to the columns of gossip weeklies.

He cautioned her to be extremely discreet. Any knowledge of their relations would be not only disastrous to him but to her career. He loved his wife, you know, but was one of those misunderstood husbands. She shook her bobbed head in perfect understanding, and meant it. His was the decorum and austerity molded by tradition.

On the night of her appearance in her first featured part, a brilliant audience gathered at one of the select playhouses. The lady filled the promising predictions made for her, and so captivated her audience that at the end of the first act enthusiasm became riotous.

She went before the curtain, made a well-chosen speech, and was called back for a total of 12 bows. In her triumph she turned her robin-bright eyes to her "Uncle" who sat with his wife in a stage box, and blew him an appreciative kiss. The audience craned to see a face gone suddenly white. He never spoke to her again.

The records show the first man to roam Broadway hatless was Earl Carroll. He was advised to do this as a remedy for baldness, and followed the prescription for several seasons, but continuing to lose his hair, dropped the notion. Many go hatless as a symbol of quasi-Bolshevism, others to be rid of the hat-checking annoyance, but the huge majority to show off.

ONE of the biggest art collectors is John Ringling, the circus man. At every auction he sits inconspicuously in the background, thumbing a catalogue and little interested until the treasure he seeks comes up. Among his most recent purchases was the bathtub in which Marat was looting when stabbed by Charlotte Corday. He paid $100 for the relic, which was a part of the Napoleonic collection of the late Rodman Wanamaker.

MY idea of a regular hairy-masted job is displayed by a lower East Side employment agency: "Wanted—Bouncer for downstairs cabaret near Chatham Square."

AND a movie theater on Second avenue heralds a clarinet-playing trained seal, which shows how low a seal can fall.

THERE is, incidentally, a trained seal act that may be presented at private parties for $50 an evening, and they furnish their own feeding fish.

FISCO, the stuttering comedian, is employing leisure time "at liberty," he says, training eagles to deliver mail for those hill-top mansions of movie actors in Beverly Hills.

FROM a theatrical magazine: "Many seek to criticize the New York theater box office man. They object to what they call his amug superiority. The truth is he is the target for an avalanche of foolish questions and has to be slightly aloof to check them. He has a good head and knows how to keep it."

I've seen better heads on dollar umbrellas.

MEXICAN POLICE DRIVE OFF ANTI-U.S. CROWD

Demonstrators in Front of Consulate Forced Back
With Clubbed Rifles.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, May 1.—Police and riot squads, guarding the United States Consulate General, today quickly dispersed several hundred men and women of the "red syndicates," who congregated in front of the Consulate as part of a May day demonstration.

Some of the demonstrators shouted: "Death to Gringos! Death to Yankees! Death to Americans!" Although the police carried loaded rifles ready for action, they were not forced to fire, shoving the crowd back with the butts of the weapons. The fire department was called out to assist the police, and firemen were ready to turn hose on the demonstrators.

By this time, however, the crowds ran in every direction, and the assemblage dispersed within 10 minutes after it began to form at the Consulate. No casualties were reported.

One Killed, Several Injured in May Day Clashes in Berlin.
BERLIN, May 1.—Police and Communists clashed at various points in Berlin during today's celebration of May day, one person being killed and several being injured.

One demonstration in a clash at Hackescher Market in Old Berlin died in a hospital from a shot. The Communists formed processions which were dispersed by police, who were targets for thrown stones and bottles.

PARIS, May 1.—Aside from a number of arrests regarded as preventive measures, early May day passed without incident in Paris. Business went on about as usual in the city, but about 90 per cent of the workers in suburban factories remained away from work.

There had been no manifestations early this afternoon. Those arrested were booked on charges of "insulting the police" who remained concentrated at possible danger points.

The number of preventive arrests and temporary locking up of various persons until midnight totaled 2283 at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Numerous foreigners among those detained will be expelled from France because of the lack of proper identification papers.

"When my sister-in-law was outfitting her new home five years ago, we found such a wonderful pair of blankets that I couldn't resist buying a pair for myself.

"Visiting us last summer she saw me putting that very same pair of blankets away and accused me of duplicating our bargain without telling her. She couldn't believe they weren't new! Hers, she said, had faded terribly and become harsh and thin.

"But I told her I find Lux as wonderful for blankets as for sheer things . . . Lux keeps all my woollens thick and soft and unshrunk just like new year after year."

The secret Koly nos formula contains one ingredient which makes it whip loosely into a snowy foam in the mouth. Hence Koly nos may be used in a dry tooth brush, the only tooth paste adapted to this method which is advocated by modern dentistry.

The use of a dry brush is important for two reasons. First, Koly nos is a highly concentrated, double-strength, antiseptic dentifrice, and the use of a dry brush means that you use it full strength!

Secondly, the bristles of an unwet-ted brush remain stiff enough to scrub the tooth surfaces properly, penetrate the crevices, pits and fissures in teeth, and massage the gums.

Removes the "Yellow"
"Yellow" teeth or dull, discolored teeth are only teeth coated with a mucin that forms in the mouth and absorbs stains from foods, drinks and tobacco.

The active, antiseptic Koly nos foam covers the teeth and disintegrates the mucoid deposit. It "works on" it like millions of tiny fingers, and with the aid of the properly stiff tooth brush, washes it completely off the teeth.

Teeth are cleaned
down to the gleaming
white, naked enamel
without injury.

The surging foam
pushes its way into all the crevices in the mouth, it cleans out and disinfects those places where food particles lodge and cause decay.

her commerce protected and an

Russia and others, all wishing to

Need for New Basis.
The problem of disarmament is inextricably bound with the problem of nations' economic and humanitarian needs. Without consideration of this vital life of all peoples, all conferences on disarmament are doomed to failure. Before we can establish the discussion on a sound basis, each nation must present its own armament needs based on its economic nationals thus remembering above all, the right of all peoples to live.

I have given enough proof of Italy's desire for peace. In seven years of government, we have signed more than a score of treaties of peace, besides a formidable number of treaties of comity and commerce. Never have we been deaf or prejudiced against any voice of good will and friendship. We welcome all efforts toward peace, for we wish to live in peace, for in peace we can construct a greater and grander Italy.
We are ready for a reduction of armaments, and will meet at the general conference, against accepting what we think should evidence our sincerity, namely the lowest figures but equal to any continental country. This is Italy's concrete proposal for peace.

CO-OPERATION OF CITY AND COUNTY IS URGED

Luncheon Speakers Make Suggestions for Filling Civic Needs.

Co-operation between St. Louis and St. Louis County for the good of the whole community was stressed at a luncheon to consider civic needs at Hotel Jefferson today. This was the third of a series of five meetings arranged by the Chamber of Commerce, considering the possibility of a large new municipal bond issue.

Today's session was devoted primarily to the needs of the western part of the city and those of the county. Luther E. Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided. Speakers and their recommendations in brief, were:

Charles M. Hay—Plain street and road signs in city and county; erection of automatic traffic signals at additional intersections, where needed and removal of some not now required.

W. W. Horner, chief street and sewer engineer for the city, speaking for the city, presented the Municipal Association—Separation of grades where chief streets cross Grand boulevard in the midtown section; establishment of two express highways between Third street and the city limits; the fringes of the central section, without grade street crossings, but accessible by ramps, probably routed over present alleys for economy.

Mayor Ruth of University City, former president of the County Chamber of Commerce—Continued co-operation of city and county to solve mutual problems.

W. Scott Hancock of the McPherson Avenue Improvement Association—Elimination of grade crossings on the Washburn Railway between Sarah street and Olive Street road; fulfillment of the scheme to convert the Rock Island Railroad right-of-way into a 100-foot boulevard between Delmar boulevard and Clayton road.

William B. Iltner of the local chapter of the American Institute of Architects—Fostering of beautiful structures and beauty places, as civic art, to make the city better.

James M. Rohan, title insurance man—Establishment of parks in the county and its effect on pending legislation, provision for county zoning and planning to protect property; widened traffic arteries connecting city and county; protection and development of the Meramec River; indications that the man was murdered and then thrown into the river, the coroner said.

W. J. Godfrey, of the Manchester-Chouteau Improvement Association—widening of Manchester avenue between Kingshighway and Maplewood, but no widening between Kingshighway and a cutoff in the vicinity of Manchester avenue to connect Tower Grove and Newstead avenues as a cross-town artery; a highway for commercial vehicles across Tower Grove Park; improvement of traffic facilities on "center streets"; opening of public comfort stations throughout the city; elimination of railroad grade crossings; riverfront development; establishment of outdoor parks; further use of school yards as playgrounds.

A. P. Greenfield—of the Regional Planning Federation—Creation of an outer park system of 25,000 to 40,000 acres within a radius of 50 miles of City Hall, to be accomplished soon, before land becomes too expensive and the woods are cut away; he suggested that as golf clubs move farther out their abandoned links could be bought as public parks, and said that $10,000 spent now for public reservations would be the best possible investment.

B. C. Stevens, former president of the County Real Estate Board—continued co-operation with the city in view of the county's great development in recent years.

George Walker, a real estate man—Co-ordination of subdivisions adjacent to St. Louis.

Mr. T. Collins, secretary of the Mill Creek Valley Association—Erection of the Clark avenue viaduct across the Union Station tracks and improvement of Clark avenue to a connection with Forest Park avenue.

Mr. L. Cook, secretary of the Lindell Boulevard Improvement Association—Smoke abatement.

REVIEWS WORK ON PIPE LINE FOR GAS FROM LOUISIANA

Christy Payne, president of the Mississippi Valley Fuel Corporation of New York, was in St. Louis yesterday reviewing progress in construction of the company's natural gas pipeline from Louisiana to St. Louis.

Payne said he said workmen were now cutting brush along the right-of-way south of St. Louis and that at Ten Brock, Mo., ditching machines and pipe were being unloaded. A large tent village for the workmen has been established near Barnhart, Mo.

The work of laying the 420 miles of pipe is expected to proceed rapidly, as the company proposes to test out by Nov. 1. Natural gas for industrial plants in the St. Louis district is to be pumped in from Louisiana at the rate of about 100,000 cubic feet a day. The main pipe line will be 22 inches in diameter.

Others associated with the corporation who accompanied Payne were B. C. Comfort, general manager; H. D. Graba, chief civil engineer; and E. S. Tompkins, assistant director of the Industrial Bureau.

ST. LOUIS-NEW YORK AIR MAIL ROUTE URGED

Committee Gets Little Encouragement From Assistant Postmaster-General.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 291-265 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Rain kept members of the Air Board of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce who conferred yesterday with Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving Glover regarding their proposal of a direct air mail service between St. Louis and New York, from taking off this morning for the return trip to St. Louis. They mean to start this afternoon and probably will stop at Cincinnati. Glover listened attentively to the plan for establishing the new air mail route but gave the delegation little encouragement. He promised to discuss the matter with Postmaster General Brown.

Stanley Clarke, president of the Public Service Co. and chairman of the Air Board, was in charge of the presentation. The other speakers were Senators Hawes and Patterson, Congressman Henry F. Niedringhaus and John J. Cochran, former Secretary of War; Dwight F. Davis, John G. Lonsdale, president of the National Bank of Commerce; Walter R. Weisenburger, president of the Chamber of Commerce; O. M. Atteberry, chairman of the Chamber's Air Mail Committee; State Senator Manuel Davis of Kansas City; Col. Halsey Dunwoody, vice president of the Universal Aviation Corporation; and Albert J. Stowe, representing the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

E. L. Wehmeyer of the St. Louis Industrial Club, presented Glover with a bound book of charts showing that the air mail service by way of Chicago had been late 60 per cent of the time.

Most of the speakers emphasized that the present air mail service out of St. Louis had become inadequate and that the time had arrived for establishment of another east-west service.

If another service were established, they said, the present traffic would be doubled. Glover wanted to know whether St. Louis would guarantee $500,000 of air mail daily. To this the speakers replied that the present service had become so unsatisfactory that an accurate estimate of future traffic would be impossible.

Former Secretary of War Davis pointed out to Glover that the War Department's experience with the Inland Waterway Corporation had proved that new services might be content with modest beginnings. Davis said he thought that traffic on the new route would grow.

Dunwoody said that although his company had the present contract on the St. Louis-Chicago route and might be injured by an additional route, he felt that St. Louis needed new air mail facilities.

DOCTOR HELD WITH DAUGHTER OF FRIEND FOUND IN HIS HOME

Robert F. Ellison Accused by 15-Year-Old Girl.

Dr. Robert F. Ellison, 40 years old, a physician, was held for investigation after police had visited his apartment at 1019 Lindell boulevard at 12:15 a. m. today and had found Miss Ruth Hayward, 18, leaving by way of a fire escape. Miss Hayward also was detained. Police went to that address, they said, after the girl's father, Dr. John D. Hayward, a surgeon, 116 North Central avenue, Clayton, had complained that she had been abducted by Dr. Ellison, a friend of the family.

Dr. Ellison, denying any improper conduct, asserted he had sent word to Dr. Hayward that his daughter was bothering him by visiting him at his home and office and acting strangely. Dr. Ellison said he, another man and Miss Hayward were eating sandwiches when police appeared. Miss Hayward made no statement. Her father could not be reached.

Dr. Ellison was divorced last June 25 by Mrs. Frances E. Ellison, now living with her parents at Ridgefield, N. J.

FOUND BOUND IN BOX-CAR ADMITS TYING HIMSELF UP

Clifford Rieker, 19 years old, of 2525 South Second street, was found today, tied hand and foot, in a box car at Second and President streets, not far from his home. His kicking on the side of the car had attracted attention. At first he told a story of having been kidnapped, robbed, held in a house for a night and a day, then bound and thrown into the car. Later he admitted to the police that, having quit his job as an upholsterer Saturday, he had started on a "bumming" trip by freight train, and had gone to Hannibal, Mo., then returned to St. Louis. Not wishing to tell his aunt the truth, he said, he tied himself up in the freight car. His relatives yesterday asked the police to look for him.

Dr. James Moore's Ball Estate.

The estate of Dr. James Moore's Ball, nationally known oculist and writer on medical subjects, who died of heart disease March 1, is valued at $2,662.50 in an inventory filed today in Probate Court. The estate is made up largely of stocks, estimated to be worth $12,257.20. After making several bequests to relatives, his will leaves the larger part of the estate to his widow, Mrs. Naomi Ball, 4374 Washington boulevard.

THREE WOMEN TAKEN IN POLICE LIQUOR RAIDS

Quantities of Moonshine and Mash Seized—Walking Bootlegger Arrested.

Three women living in the neighborhood of Twelfth and Howard streets were arrested yesterday after police of the North Market Street District had found quantities of moonshine whisky and mash in their homes.

At the home of Mrs. Maggie Kowalcik, 33 years old, 1225 North Twelfth street, the officers found three barrels of mash, five quarts of beer and three quarts of whisky. Upstairs in the home of Mrs. Maggie Komoso, 40, they found four barrels of mash and a pint and a half of whisky.

Nearby in the home of Mrs. Katie Orzel, 42 years old, 1293A Howard street, police found two barrels of mash, three quarts of whisky and 17 bottles of beer. Mrs. Orzel said she had lent her still to a friend but would not give the name. The arrest of these women followed complaints to police that liquor was being made and sold in their homes.

A man who hung around a saloon at 709 High street and served customers with whisky from bottles he carried in his pockets was arrested in the saloon yesterday afternoon by police. He said he was Frank Clermont, 66, residing at the McKinley Hotel. When officers entered the saloon he attempted to go out a back door but was stopped. In his pockets he had three pint bottles, two full of whisky and one partly full. He told police the proprietor gave him his means for his services. The proprietor, Joseph Saguto, was arrested.

Robert Hannon, 45 years old, proprietor of a saloon at 1229 Olive street, was arrested after police found two pints of whisky and one pint of gin in his place.

OHIO DRY AGENTS SUSPENDED, HIRED GIRLS AS INFORMERS
Two State Officers Reprimanded for Drinking With 15-Year-Old Witnesses After Raid.

COLUMBUS, O., May 1.—State prohibition agents Edward Little and John Cole are under suspension following reprimands from Federal and State officials for employing two 15-year-old girls to obtain evidence in a liquor case, thrown out of Federal Court yesterday upon the girls' admission that they drank wine with the agents after the raid.

Little and Cole presented Miss Carrie Walton and Miss Catherine Gunion as witnesses that they had bought liquor from Harry Poole and Amos Frankhauser, United States Commissioner Horner dismissed the case and warned the two agents to remain out of his court "unless your hands are clean."

Power to impose restrictions. The act proposes to give the city the power, as a condition for granting its consent to the franchise, to impose restrictions on the company, including terms under which it shall receive compensation for the use of public property, receive a portion of the receipts of the company for its right to operate, and also may agree on a method of accounting in connection with the capital account of the company, fixing the initial capital value, which, with additions and deductions, would represent the price at which the city might purchase the property.

The extent to which such provisions would hold good has been subject to debate here, in view of court decisions relieving utilities of liability to carry out contracts made with municipalities when such contracts proved disadvantageous to the companies in making such profit as the Public Service Commission held to be reasonable and proper.

Whenever the city, having decided to purchase the property of a company, shall notify the commission that it has been unable to reach an agreement as to the purchase price, the commission is authorized to determine the value, fix the terms of purchase and also fix the "advance damages" bill for passage. (Paragraphs for publication in this column should be addressed to the Financial Editor.)
Directors of the St. Louis-Southwestern (Cotton Belt) Railway Co. selected several weeks ago at a stockholders' caucus in New York, were elected to the board at the annual stockholders' meeting held today in the general offices of the railroad in the Buder Bldg. Directors will meet in New York later in the month to elect officers.
The new members of the board are William M. Grey of New York, head of New York Investors, Inc., which recently acquired a controlling interest in the railroad; Walter E. Meyer, C. B. Stuart and Harry E. Ward of New York and Joseph F. Porter of Kansas City. Others who were re-elected are Frank Bailey, chairman of the board of New York Investors, Inc.; Frank N. Gould and Alfred H. Swenson of New York, and Daniel Upthegrove of St. Louis, president of the railroad.
Meyer returns to the board after being defeated for re-election a year ago. He represents a minority group of stockholders who advocate a common stock dividend against the management's policy of reinvesting profits in equipment.
New York Investors, Inc. acquired their holdings in the Kansas City Southern Railway after the Interstate Commerce Commission had blocked the plan of L. F. Loree, head of that railroad, to merge these two with the Missouri-Kansas-Texas lines.
The Plaza National Bank will open Sept. 1 in the Missouri Pacific Building, Thirteenth and Olive streets, according to announcement today by Julius W. Reinholdt Jr., an organizer of the new depository and temporary chairman of the board of directors.
Reinholdt said that the following additional directors have been chosen: E. B. Burnham, Nelson Cunliff, Russell Gardner Jr., Lyman T. Hay, John J. Little, Alfred Luckmann, Ferd Oberweider and E. T. Standard. Three other directors will be selected later. Officers have not been elected.
Formal permission for the establishment of the bank was received this morning from the Treasury Department. As has been told, the initial capital of the bank is $300,000, with a surplus of $75,000. Three thousand shares of stock at $25 a share have been subscribed and no further stock issue is contemplated. Several of the larger stockholders, however, have transferred some of their holdings, admitting smaller investors.
The Missouri State Game Inspection and Weighing Department has announced an increase in weighing fee on grain unloaded into public elevators in St. Louis to 75 cents per car load. Heretofore the rate has been 50 cents.
Lorenzo E. Anderson & Co. announced that Andrew H. Kauffman has been admitted to general partnership in the firm.
Leonard J. Schwartz has become associated with the sales organization of Whitaker & Co.
A. R. Eichlepp, associated for more than 15 years with Francis Bro. & Co., and for the last five years manager of their Tulsa branch office, has organized the Myranda Investment Co. at Tulsa, Ok.
Clarence D. Henry, formerly connected with the J. Bolland Jewellery Co., has acquired an interest in the Hess & Culbertson Jewellery Co. and has been elected secretary of the latter concern.

For doctors everywhere can tell you that medical science has put Feen-a-mint in delicious mint chewing gum purposefully. As you chew, the saliva carries a tasteless laxative to the intestines.
Action is gentle, but thorough. And the laxative is not digested like ordinary laxatives drugging the system. It passes unchanged from the body after its work is done. Children like it, too.

You cannot find a druggist who does not sell Feen-a-mint—with approval!

$20,000 WILL CONTEST TRIED FOR THIRD TIME

Relatives of Mrs. T. E. Perley Attack Bequest Made to German Count.

The suit by relatives to break the will of Mrs. T. E. Perley, formerly of Alton, leaving an estate estimated at between $20,000 and and $30,000 to her son-in-law,
Count Otto von Koenigsmark of Germany, is a trial for the third time at Edwardsville today. The case will probably be concluded late today and will go to the jury tomorrow, inasmuch as evidence is expected to parallel that at former trials, in which the plaintiffs questioned Mrs. Perley's mental condition when she made the will in 1916.

Mrs. Perley left her estate to her daughter, Mrs. Lelia von Koenigsmark with the provision that it go to the Count should his wife die before him. Both Mrs.
Perley and her daughter died within a month and the estate went to the Count.

Mrs. Kate Ray of St. Louis, a niece, and Charles Short of East St. Louis, a nephew, and five other relatives of Mrs. Perley filed suit in 1924 to set aside the will on grounds of undue influence and mental incapacity. At two former trials decisions were rendered in favor of the contestants. A recent decision of the Illinois Supreme Court remanded the case to the Circuit Court for retrial.

The testimony of Victor Frank, former valet for the Count who came to Edwardsville from Germany for the first trial was read yesterday. It was his testimony, to a great extent, that resulted in setting the will aside.

Long-Haired Poles
View First Movies

MEMBERS of the Khasyada sect of Poland have seen their first movie, and liked it. Bearded men with long curls, worn according to their religious beliefs, howled with delight, shouted advice and warnings to the actors and otherwise carried on as children seeing their first film.

The occasion was the presentation of a film history of a famous Polish Jew patriot, Barak Joscelsky, who perished during the Kosciuszko insurgent movement. The Khasyada's religious leaders decided to allow the men of the sect to view the film at a special performance, but no women were permitted to attend.

"Where is Mrs. Wood Duck?" Peter asked Beauty one day.

"Attending to her duty," replied Beauty, his eyes twinkling.

"And what is that duty?" asked Peter.

"Sitting on eggs," replied Beauty. Peter sighed. "Then you really and truly have a nest," said he. "We really and truly have," replied Beauty.

I WAS seven years old when I first went to school. I'll never forget that first Monday morning when I rode off with Brother Willie to the little frame shack, five miles away, that was called the parish school house. Entering school seemed like a great adventure. Thinking of it now, I guess my coming was an adventure the nuns who taught there. I'm ashamed of myself when I think what a tough life I led them.

I got away to a flying start by getting Willie in trouble the first day. In back of the school was a pile of timber logs, used for firewood. It must have been ten feet high. I foolishly dared Willie to climb to the top of the pile, and in a jiffy the two of us were up.

Suddenly, a log rolled a trifle and Willie lost his footing. He balanced himself for a moment, and I laughed at his wild scrambling to save himself from a fall. I guess the laugh did the trick. He went rolling, crashing to the ground and lay there as if unconscious. Down I went to see what had happened. Two of the nuns came running out of the school house just as Willie sat up and looked about him dazedly.

His leg was hurt, but not badly. On the way home we framed our story. So we told Mother and Dad that Willie had fallen from his horse while jumping a creek. The nuns visited the ranch about a week later and spilled the beans by warning Mother against letting her youngsters try dangerous stunts. The cat was out of the bag, and after the nun left, Willie and I were given a lesson, taught with the aid of a switch, on the evils of telling lies. Neither of us could sit down for the next hour. It was at the parish school that I met my first girl playmate, Gussie Griffith, a sister of Corinne Griffith, who is one of the brightest stars in the movies today. Their father was conductor on the dinky train that ran over the tracks at one edge of our ranch. I knew Corinne, too. She was only one of many celebrities whom I knew in my childhood days in the Southwest.

Life on the ranch had taken on a regular routine. Up early in the morning and help to milk cows and feed the chickens. Breakfast, then ride away to school. When school was out at 4 o'clock, there were more farm chores for each of us kids. It was pretty dull most of the time.

But trust little Texas to find some way to drive away the dullness. On the way home from school, we had to pass the huge circle of iron which served as the fire alarm for the Waco Volunteer Fire Department.

For weeks and months I never passed that going without praying for help to let the alarm alone. I was my chance. I opened her desk, and loved to watch the fire fighters in action. I stood up under the strain for a long time, but I knew it couldn't last.

One day, I lagged behind Willie, who was riding fast to get home early. Without getting off my pony, I grabbed the heavy mallet and banged away at the gong until my well-muscled right arm was tired. Then I dropped the mallet, spurred my broncho and dashed away to join Willie, who had stopped to gaze at my crazy stunt.

Together we stood and laughed while the bewildered firemen arrived one at a time, shaking their fists wildly at each other and demanding to know who had rung the alarm. Finally they apied us, and convicted us without a trial. Two of them set out after us, but we outdistanced them and hid in a barn at the ranch while the out-and said not a word about what I had done. Emma stayed there all night. A searching party found her in the morning and she promptly told them that I was responsible for her predicament.

The complaining senior Trouts arrived at the ranch while I was still in bed. I ran and hid in the barn once more, escaping their wrath only to get later one of the finest whalings my mother ever had given me. But I had squared things with Emma, so I felt it was worth it.

That was the first time I ever had shown any coldbloodedness. It is the same instinct that drives me now. I guess, in dealing with the out-of-town buyers who are simply aching to leave their bankrolls behind them when they leave New York.

One of my wild stunts nearly ended in disaster. I had read a Laura Jean Libby novel in which a young mother and her baby were lost when their boat sank while crossing a river. I wanted to try a crossing myself, on the Brazos River, which ran through the ranch, but I knew nothing of drowning, nor the danger of deep water.

So I went to a neighbor, Mrs. Garland, and borrowed her infant son, Hugh. At the river's edge I found an old water-logged tub which had been lying there for months. With Hugh in my arms, I sat in the tub and pushed it out into the stream. Slowly the water began to seep through the cracks.

"Why, it's just like the story," I told myself.

Just then there was a piercing scream, and Mrs. Garland, with a wild look in her eyes and her face white with fear, came running down to the water's edge, and shouted for me to come ashore. I couldn't. I had nothing to use for a paddle and the current was carrying the tub away.

She sprinted back to the house and called two men, who a minute later were swimming toward my slowly sinking craft. I realized they were going to take me ashore, and I cried:

"Don't! Go back! You're spoiling the story!"

They spotted an obituary story, I guess, for they picked us out of the tub just as the water had half filled it. It was only a short distance to the shore, so the rescue was easy.

I won't say the scare had any effect on me, but I'm sure it cured Mrs. Garland of lending her baby. By the way, I met Hugh Garland while I was in Hollywood last year, and introduced him to the guests at a tea as the boy I had

THE HUMAN BODY

By Dr. Logan Clendening.

MALNUTRITION OF INFANCY.

SOME infants seem to be inherently incapable of developing proper body weight and strength. Sometimes of course it is due to an improper food mixture, but even when the food is exactly the same as what another infant thrives on the marasmus infant will be thin and scrawny and fretful.

The symptoms and signs of the condition are very evident. The body is underweight, and in severe cases patently so—indeed they may be pitiful sights for this reason. The muscles are soft. The skin and membranes are pale. Dentition is delayed. The hands and feet are cold and the skin dry. Skin eruptions occur.

Treatment is difficult and calls for great patience. Sometimes of course, the food may be improper either in amount or proportions. Even if the infant is being breast fed the mother's milk may be insufficient or it may be deficient in some of the elements.

When the baby is not breast fed, the largest number of cases of malnutrition are liable to develop. Fats, protein or carbohydrate—the three essential elements—may be improperly balanced. Sometimes the infants are fed too frequently and sometimes not frequently enough.

The best treatment in cases where the mother can not nurse the baby is to get a wet nurse or substitute mother. Mother's milk is entirely different in composition from cow's milk and nothing can replace it. Feeding this a wet nurse or substitute mother is usually no one can tell absolutely what the proper mixture for any given child is. Good results are obtained by a process of trial and error—trying the baby first on one kind of food, then on another until a gain in weight and strength begins to be noticed. Often no progress is noted until the child is put on one of the prepared foods or condensed milk, which of course are not good foods in normal infants. When these babies do get on a food that suits them they gain ground in a hurry.

Attention to general hygiene is also important. Many cases seem to begin with an infection of some

Lacquered Things

LACQUERED silver, brass and other metal articles are easily kept clean because the shellac preparation which covers them protects them from the action of air and moisture and prevents them from tarnishing.

To keep them in good condition it is merely necessary to dust them regularly and occasionally wipe them rapidly with a cloth wrung out of warm, soapy water and thoroughly dry immediately. The use of much water will cause the lacquer to chip off in patches. When this happens the lacquer must be removed by applying alcohol and the exposed surface must be relacquered.

A little turpentine will soften the hardened shoe polish for further use.

PLANTING ROSES

MANY joys the year discloses,
Many pleasures it can boast;
But the time of planting roses
Brings a deeper joy than most.

Planting roses, planting beauty
In the dark and senseless soil;
Planting loveliness to brighten
Quiet hours after toil.

Friends may leave our pathways lonely

So life seems an empty husk;
But the roses will be waiting,
Souls of sweetness, in the dusk:
Planting roses is but planting
Gladness when the sap will rise,
Planting sweets for birds to sing to,
Future joy for butterflies.

Planting roses—planting beauty
Springtime's garland to adorn,
Planting color, fragrance, grace
For the hours yet unborn!

Market Sells Down Sharply on Fears of Large Increase in Brokers' Loans
Then Rallies Briskly.

LOANS BY RESERVE
RISE $40,000,000

Stock Exchange Announces
Total Accommodations
Members Decreased $29,527,013 During April.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The stock market displayed a complete reversal of form today, selling down sharply in the morning on fears of a large increase in brokers' loans for the close and then rallying briskly when heavy buying developed in a few of the so-called "torgan" stocks.

Loans Up $40,000,000.
Loans to brokers and dealers by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending May 1 were announced by the Federal Reserve Board after the market today as $5,527,000,000, representing an increase of $40,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

The report showed that loans in account increased $55,000,000, those for account of brokers increased $24,000,000, while account of others decreased $39,000,000.

The New York Stock Exchange announced today that total loans against securities collateralized by members decreased $29,527,013 during April. The total as of April 30 was $5,774,920,395; against $5,804,447,408 at the end of March. April 30, 1928, borrowings were $4,807,782,593.

Except for the publication of other series of favorable cash statements and the resumption of dividends on Yellow Tax, New York after a lapse of two years, there was little in the day's action to influence the price movement. Reports from the leading industries indicated that production was being maintained at a rate with no signs of a general recession, despite fears that money rates would have a restraining influence.

Call money renewed at 10 per cent, as against 11 yesterday, and steady at that rate throughout the day.

Pool Activity Stimulated.
The recent increase in public participation, as reflected in the trading volume of commission houses and odd lot buying, stimulated pool activities. Sharp recessions took place in United Aircraft and Advanced Aircraft in the early trading.

A few high priced specialties, as Union Carbide and General Solvents also broke back, but they had only a temporary effect on the general list, and returned to their old positions. The market leader by climb was more than 5 points to a record for the present year of $112 a share, one block of shares changing hands at $112 to $124, or nearly 40 points in the March low. Air Reduction soared more than 10 points to a top of 129 1/2, and Ludlum moved up nearly 9 points to a high of 95 1/2. Closing sales were a little off from higher bids took little part in the advance, although quiet accumulation was apparent in some of the high investment issues.

part in the forward movement of the last hour. There was a huge turn-over of the bank issues. Shares easily moved up of the limited floating supply where the largest gainers, Macy was sent up 10 points, and Hudson 8. Mullins Manufacturing 5 1/2, and U. S. Real Estate closed 1 1/2. Closing prices were down from top. Total sales were 1,250,000 shares.

Warner and Purdy Baking dropped 2 points on opening. Westinghouse Electric, Union Telephone and Union Pacific opened 1 1/2, higher at 1 1/2, a new high for American Can. Andover Electric Autolite and Aeromet advanced a point or more.
